President Makes Nationwide Appeal For Relief Support

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—After a nationwide appeal for funds to provide for community support of winter relief needs, President Hoover today resumed consideration of plans for continuing his personal campaign for re-election.

These plans included a determination of when and where, in the three weeks remaining before Election Day, he will make his next appearance before voters. An Atlantic seaboard trip, ending with a speech in New York or New Jersey, was indicated by Republican leaders.

Mr. Hoover last night opened the drive for relief contributions of the Welfare and Relief Mobilization Committee headed by Newton D. Baker. He spoke over the radio at the White House.

"We must make our material provision for the support of our charitable and character building institutions," the President said. "We must provide to the utmost extent for the local community support of the increased distress over the country."

Accept Responsibility

"I take profound pride in the fact that my countrymen have accepted the responsibility, each in his own community, to meet this need. That is the only way to meet it effectively—in the neighborhood itself, where the need is known."

At Cleveland Saturday night the President discussed unemployment relief. There Mr. Hoover made it the first of "twelve major measures" which he said composed the administration record in relation to wage and salary earners. They were:

1. Mobilization of national and local relief agencies, appropriation of $300,000,000 for loans to states, and distribution of farm board wheat and cotton.
2. Calling of an employer and employe conference to uphold wages and buying power.
3. Use of public works to assist in employment stabilization.
4. Appropriation of $1,500,000,000 for construction loans of the self-sustaining class.
5. Employment spreading for government workers through shorter hours.
6. Creation of the home loan bank system.
7. Advocacy of high wages.
8. Protection of the domestic market for American labor through a protective tariff.
9. Prohibition of immigration except for relatives or citizens.
10. Preservation of the integrity of the American dollar.
11. Restoration of normal jobs through maintaining credit.
12. Efforts to improve American markets by improving the internal stability of other nations.

Causes of Depression

Before outlining these policies to his Cleveland audience, Mr. Hoover discussed causes of world economic strain. He said "Our opponents demand to know" why the government's leaders did not foresee "the approach of these disintegrating forces."

"No man can foresee the coming fear or panic, or the extent of its effect," Mr. Hoover said. "I did not notice any Democratic Jeremiahs. ***

"There is a vital determination before the American people as to whether there shall be placed in power over the destinies of 120,000,000 of people a party which so lacks a penetration into the forces active in the world and the dangers and responsibilities that arise from them."

The President described as "calumny" that has been "disproved and denounced time and again," a statement from a "copy of instructions issued by the Democratic national committee" to the effect that he had employed cheap Chinese labor when an engineer in South Africa.

ROOSEVELT WILL START TUESDAY ON WESTERN TRIP

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt once more is packing up his campaign baggage today, this time on the eve of the eight day trip which will take him on a circuit of mid-western and southern states.

The starting whistle of the "Roosevelt Special," which carried the Democratic presidential candidate on his 9,000 mile tour several weeks ago, will blow at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. In the intervening hours the governor hopes to get his affairs in order for the three weeks between now and election—three weeks which for him will be crammed with activity.

Leaving tomorrow, he will travel west on the first leg of the trip for which he has planned three major speeches and numerous others. The principal addresses will be given at Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Baltimore. Returning from this tour on October 26, the governor will immediately be confronted with the problem of whether to call a special session of the state legislature for unemployment relief purposes. This will require conferences with various state officers.

Presbyterians to Form Men's Club

Rondout Presbyterian Church Men Plan to Hold Organization Meeting and Supper in Near Future—Other Activities at Downtown Church.

The men of the Rondout Presbyterian Church held an important meeting before the regular church service on Sunday and decided to take steps toward organizing a Men's Club in the church. It was decided to hold an organization meeting and supper of all of the men of the church in the near future. Since the death of Frank R. Powley the men's class of the Sunday school has been without a teacher and it was decided to reorganize the class, and hold its first meeting next Sunday morning with the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., pastor of the church, in charge of the class. A special course of study will be taken up by the class.

The ladies of the domestic booth of the annual fair will hold a clam chowder sale at the chapel at 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday. Orders may be telephoned to Mrs. Alice Metcalf or to Mrs. William McCullough.

Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock the children will give an entertainment "In the Time of Washington", for the juvenile department of the annual fair. A nominal admission will be charged and ice cream will be on sale at the close of the entertainment.

Teachers Fight Against Wage Cut

By adoption of a resolution at its annual convention in Syracuse over the week-end, the New York State Teachers Welfare League has joined the New York State Teachers Association in a fight against wage reductions, it was announced yesterday.

The resolution to stand shoulder to shoulder with the Teachers Association in a battle against pay slashing legislation was passed after the league had heard Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz of New York city, vice-president of the American Federation of Teachers, characterize the wage reduction policy as a "panacea for a sick, acquisitive society controlled by politics and politicians."

Miss Emily Tarbell of Syracuse was re-elected president of the league. Other officers are first vice president, Dr. George L. Phelps, New Hartford; second vice president, Miss Maude MacLachlan, Central High School, Syracuse; third vice president, Mrs. Harriet Tupper Ferris, New York city; fourth vice president, Miss Susanna Callahan, Jamestown; fifth vice president, Michael Dillon, Hoosick Falls.

Miss Frieda Hayes, Kingston, is recording secretary; Mrs. Mary Chapman, Newburgh, assistant secretary; Miss Anna F. Kruger, Syracuse, corresponding secretary, and Miss Florence Hall, Watertown, treasurer.

Free Trade Versus The Empire Tariff

London, Oct. 17 (AP).—A fierce battle between the ancient British principle of free trade and the newer policy of empire tariff protection is promised when Parliament reassembles tomorrow to act on the new tariff deals between Great Britain and the Dominions arranged at the Ottawa trade conference last summer.

Victory for the new policy is as certain as anything in politics, for the national government musters a plurality of 500 in Commons.

It may be free trade's last stand, but its champions never surrender. They have split Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's national cabinet in recent weeks and in Parliament they will launch a campaign looking toward new elections and a reversal of the basic fiscal policy the government has embraced.

The Parliamentary session, originally planned as a three-day cleanup of routine, probably will last a month.

Three Killed In German Riots

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP).—Three persons were killed and a score injured in political riots in Germany over the week-end. At Leipzic a National Socialist was killed and four wounded. Two were killed and twelve seriously injured at Dortmund in clashes between National Socialists and Communists.

In Berlin a comparatively long spell of political tranquility was broken by pre-election fights in which three were injured and 25 arrested.

LEAGUE ADJOURNS AFTER AN UNEVENTFUL SESSION.

Geneva, Oct. 17 (AP).—The League of Nations assembly adjourned today after an uneventful session.

Assignment of the important questions of disarmament, Manchuria and world economic conditions to other bodies deprived it of most of its public interest.

Its chief decision was the reorganization of the higher direction of the League secretariat which, coupled with the retirement of Sir Eric Drummond as secretary-general, will give France an increased influence at the headquarters here and permit the smaller powers for the first time to gain a foothold among the superior officers of the permanent staff.

Joseph Avenol, the Frenchman, was formally appointed secretary-general, to take office when Sir Eric retires next year. The appointment was referred to the approaching session of the League assembly for confirmation.

JAZZ MEMBERS PLAYED IN CHURCH, DIRECTOR QUITS

Toledo, O., Oct. 17 (AP).—The strains of snappy jazz numbers played by a night club orchestra two weeks ago in the stately First Westminster Presbyterian Church had an echo today with the resignation of Herbert S. Boynton as director of church music.

Boynton attached copies of "I'm yours for tonight" and "Let's Have a Party," two of the numbers played, to his letter of resignation. He termed the presentation of them "an outrage which could not have been perpetrated had my position as director of music been respected."

The pastor, Dr. Elwood Rowsey, defended the appearance of the orchestra two weeks ago last night, saying he wanted to make his Sunday morning services devotional and those in the evening entertaining.

The following Sunday night, Edwin Markham, poet, appeared, while last night the church was lighted with candles and an old fashioned service was held with the congregation singing the songs of their grandmothers' time.

EINSTEIN THINKS EARTH IS 10 BILLION YEARS OLD

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP).—To add to the other troubles of Mother Earth, the old lady awoke today to hear, on noted authority, that she may be about 7,000,000,000 years older than she thought she was.

The authority is Dr. Albert Einstein, famous scientist and mathematician, and the "Father of Relativity."

Dr. Einstein places the age of the earth at probably about 10,000,000,000 years.

It can't be proved, he said yesterday in a lecture on "The Conception of Space," but he added that the universe is in a state of expansion which possibly has been progressing for 10,000,000,000 years and that the birthday of the earth might be linked up with the beginning of that expansion period.

The latest calculations of other scientific authorities have placed the earth's age at about 3,000,000,000 years.

RELIGIOUS REBELLION NIPPED BY POLICE.

Mexico City, Oct. 17 (AP).—A plan for a widespread religious rebellion in the state of Jalisco was nipped early today, police said, by a raid on a house in Guadalajara in which two of the alleged plotters were killed and several others escaped.

The battle lasted an hour. Police said they seized a large quantity of rifles, pistols, ammunition, dynamite bombs, field equipment, a printing press and a great deal of printed matter urging the rebellion.

Prison Riot Cut Short By Wardens

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17 (AP)—A riot in the Speigner state prison 20 miles outside of Montgomery was cut short yesterday as guards sprayed convicts with gunfire, killed one of them and wounded twenty-four others. A warden subdued another group with a scrub brush.

The uprising occurred during the recreation hour after Carl Singleton, 18-year-old Jefferson county convict, led fourteen fellow inmates in a dash for liberty against the west fence of the prison enclosure. Singleton fell fatally wounded in the first volley from the guards.

Half of the 950 prisoners in the institution rushed the entrance as Singleton's body was brought through the main gate of the enclosure on a stretcher, guards manned strategic points and opened fire. The rioting convicts stoped short when twenty-four of the leaders were dropped by shots.

Meanwhile, the fourteen who followed Singleton ran across an outer yard of the prison only to encounter gray haired Warden A. B. Smith. He calmly shoved one hand in a pocket and told the fleeing group, "All right boys, you can walk in with me or go in like that fellow on the ground."

Ten turned back but four continued their flight. The warden's only weapon he said later was a scrub brush hastily snatched from his automobile as he saw the prisoners in flight, he had it hidden in his clothing and pointed it like a gun.

Officers Slay Each Other During Raids

Russellville, Ky., Oct. 17 (AP).—Federal and county officers today sought more detailed information concerning a pistol fight which claimed the lives of a federal prohibition investigator and a Logan county special deputy sheriff in a negro cabin late Saturday night.

Frank A. Mather, 49, prohibition investigator working out of the Louisville office, and Bluch Soyars, 57, superintendent of the Russellville waterworks and special deputy sheriff, were the principals in the tragedy. Soyars died an hour after the fight and Mather succumbed Sunday morning.

At a private hearing before County Judge J. W. Linton Sunday, it was decided the officers killed each other and that they were the only ones who fired pistols in the cabin, which was being used by federal officers as a corral for prisoners taken in liquor raids.

Police Chief O. H. McEndree, who led a party of Logan officers to the cabin after he said he received a report of trouble there, and Sheriff George Russell said the shooting resulted from failure of the federal men to advise local officers of their plans or to identify themselves.

Herriott Stronger After New Election

As a result of yesterday's Senate elections, in which the leftish swing of the general elections last May was repeated, Premier Edouard Herriot emerged today with his forces considerably strengthened.

A tentative final count of the votes showed the Premier's Democratic left itself, which corresponds to the radical Socialist group in the Chamber of Deputies, gained four seats, raising its strength in the Senate from 151 to 155. There are 314 senators.

The Republican radicals gained two seats and the Republican union one. The left Republicans lost four, the Socialists one and the Conservatives one.

Further Action In Insull Case

Athens, Oct. 17 (AP).—The United States Legation plans to submit a warrant to the Greek courts to determine whether Samuel Insull, former Chicago power magnate, can be extradited to the United States, as soon as ratifications of the Greco-American extradition treaty are exchanged by the two governments, it was learned today.

The Legation today had no advice from Washington that a warrant for Insull's detention had been forwarded, however, and it assumed no action could be taken for at least ten days.

Deaths Prominent In Week-end News In New York State

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP).—Death wrote its name prominently into the news of New York state over the week-end.

A camper was burned to death, an aviator was killed, a man put a rifle to his head and pulled the trigger, a missing game protector's canoe was found overturned, a noted old prison official died. Here the items:

Holland Patent—Late last Saturday Robert E. Williams, 36, bade his sweetheart, Miss Louise Buckingham, 26, good night and left for his camp at Lake Hinckley.

A group of visitors, arriving yesterday with Miss Buckingham, found only ashes where the camp had been. Tearfully the young woman picked up a seared pocket knife and identified it as her fiance's. The coroner decided an overheated stove caused the fire and that the body in the ashes was Williams's.

West Point—While his family and friends at Round Lake were preparing a birthday party in his honor, Richard C. Allen, a department of commerce flier, was killed when his airplane fell and his parachute failed to open.

Dannemora—When sullen convicts at Clinton Prison in 1919 declared a "stay-out" and refused to go into their cells, someone sent for Thomas F. Coultry, who had retired as principal keeper a few days before. Stern-faced, Coultry strode into the prison yard, cane in hand, and stormily glowered at the men. He growled an order. The mutinous groups broke up slowly, the men filed obediently back to their cells. Coultry, a veteran of Sing Sing and Auburn guard service, became noted among prison guards for his deed.

Coultry died in his home at Altona, N. Y., last night. He was 78.

Silver Bay—Someone found the canoe of Paul Duconnois, 26, a state game protector, floating upside down on Jabes Pond. Floating nearby was Duconnois' hat. A search was begun for his body in water 45 feet deep.

Besides these there were other deaths in the news. Frank Daniels, of Bleecker, 45, an automobile mechanic was so worried about the possibility of losing his job that he discharged a rifle into his head. John Segel, 70, and reputed well to do, purposely inhaled gas from a kitchen stove in his home at Middletown.

At Binghamton Mrs. Mary Guzylik was "too tired" to attend a wedding celebration and stayed home. She was found dead, jets of a gas range turned on. The coroner said her death was accidental.

At Oneonta police sought a "hit-run" driver whose automobile killed Milton J. Gregg, 24. At Albany 17-year old La Verne Harvey died after an automobile accident involving four cars.

At Poughkeepsie an investigation was begun into the death of James O'Donnell, 25, of Brooklyn, found shot to death yesterday in the home of John Cotting, of Rock City, a violet grower.

EFFORT TO RESTORE HOUSE IN WHICH LINCOLN DIED

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP).—An effort to restore the house in which Abraham Lincoln died, is being made by patriotic societies and the Federal Public Buildings and Public Parks Division.

Satisfactory progress, helped by donations of period furniture, is reported by Lieutenant Colonel U. S. Grant, III, director of the Buildings and Parks agency, which is supervising the work.

The home, known as the Peterson House, stands at 516 Tenth street, directly across the street from Ford's Theatre, where Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth. He was taken to the house and died there the night of April 14, 1865.

From old diagrams and newspaper stories, Col. Grant and his associates have learned the type and exact location of every piece of furniture in it that day. While the original furniture no longer is available, period pieces are being obtained from time to time and placed where they belong. No exterior restoration is necessary.

The latest accomplishment in the restoration has been uncovering the wall paper in the room where Lincoln died. Several layers over it were soaked off and the striped pattern uncovered is believed to be that in use then.

Discounts Theory

Providence, R. I., Oct. 17 (AP).—The theory that Richard C. Allen, Department of Commerce aviation inspector who was killed yesterday near West Point, N. Y., while on a flight from the state airport at Hillsgrove to his home in Albany, had jumped from his plane, because it had run out of gas was discounted today by E. W. Wiggins, owner of the hangar at the field, who said he had personally filled up Allen's tank of his plane a few minutes before he took off.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP).—Treasury receipts for October 14 were $3,344,614.64; expenditures $19,332,717.57; balance $767,343,781.37. Customs duties for 14 days of October were $16,916,349.81.

STATE OF NEW YORK
DEPARTMENT OF STATE
Albany, September 15, 1932.

PURSUANT to the provisions of section eighty of the Election Law, the following proposed amendment to the constitution, designated as Proposed Amendment number One and Proposition number One, will be submitted to the voters of this State for approval at the General Election on November eighth, nineteen hundred and thirty-two.

EDWARD J. FLYNN,
Secretary of State.

TEXT OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE

Section 1. Resolved, That section seven of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the state from constructing a state highway from Saranac lake in Franklin county to Long lake in Hamilton county and thence to Old Forge in Herkimer county by way of Blue Mountain lake and Racquette lake, and nothing shall prevent the state from constructing a state highway in Essex county from Wilmington to the top of Whiteface Mountain.

The legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed for terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term.

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prevent the enactment by the legislature of separate laws, each applying to a single project, providing, at the expense of the state, for the construction within the forest preserve of such recreational facilities as are not inconsistent with the general wild forest character of the forest preserve, and the making of necessary clearings of timber therefor. Such facilities shall be maintained for the benefit of all the people, without discrimination, and by a public authority and not by a lessee, or contractor, and with the public moneys of the state, a county or a town, or of two or more of them; but the latter restriction shall not prevent the collection of reasonable charges for the facilities afforded, to be applied solely to operating expenses, maintenance and repairs. Nor shall anything contained in this section be construed to prevent any measures necessary to protect the forest preserve against fire, nor to prohibit the making and maintenance of paths, trails, campsites and camping facilities designed to render the forest preserve more accessible and useful to the public, including the necessary clearings of timber therefor, nor to prevent the widening, straightening or improvement of existing public roads in the forest preserve.

A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or, with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

FORM OF SUBMISSION OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE

Shall the proposed amendment of section seven of article seven of the constitution, in relation to the use of the forest preserve for recreation purposes, be approved?

TEXT OF PROPOSITION NUMBER ONE
CHAPTER 566

AN ACT authorizing the creation of a state debt, to the amount of thirty million dollars ($30,000,000), to provide funds, to be available from November fifteenth, nineteen hundred thirty-two to January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, to relieve the people of the state from the hardships and suffering, caused by unemployment, and the effects thereof on the public health and welfare, including the granting of aid to municipalities for such purpose, through such agencies and by such ways and means as the legislature shall have prescribed or hereafter may prescribe for the administration and distribution of temporary emergency relief and the cost thereof, and providing for the submission to the people of a proposition or question therefor to be voted upon at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred thirty-two

Became a law March 31, 1932, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, on message of necessity, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The creation of a state debt in the amount of thirty million dollars ($30,000,000) is hereby authorized to provide funds, to be available from November fifteenth, nineteen hundred thirty-two to January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, to relieve the people of the state from the hardships and suffering caused by unemployment, and the effects thereof on the public health and welfare, including the granting of aid to municipalities for such purpose. The legislature may continue existing agencies and provisions of law, or may create other agencies and/or other ways and means, to administer and distribute temporary emergency relief for such purpose, and may provide for the cost thereof, from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds authorized by this act, in such amounts as the legislature from time to time, shall have appropriated or may appropriate and make available therefrom and the money so appropriated shall be paid from the treasury on the audit and warrant of the comptroller upon vouchers certified or approved pursuant to law.

§ 2. The state comptroller is hereby authorized and empowered to issue and sell bonds of the state to the amount of the debt hereby authorized to be created and for the purpose hereby authorized, to be known as "emergency unemployment relief bonds." Such bonds shall bear interest at the rate of not to exceed five per centum per annum, which interest shall be payable semi-annually in the city of New York. Such bonds, or the portion thereof at any time issued, shall be made payable in equal annual instalments, the first of which shall be payable one year from the date of issue and the last of which shall be payable within seven years after the date of issue and in no case to exceed the probable life of the work or object, to which the proceeds thereof are to be applied as determined by the state finance law. Such bonds, or the portion thereof at any time sold, shall be of such denominations, subject to the foregoing provisions, as the comptroller may determine. Such bonds shall be sold in such lot or lots, from time to time, as may be required to carry out the provisions of laws making appropriations for the purposes for which such bonds were issued. Such bonds shall be sold at not less than par to the highest bidder after advertisement for a period of ten consecutive days, Sundays excepted, in at least two daily newspapers printed in the city of New York and one in the city of Albany. Advertisements shall contain a provision to the effect that the comptroller, in his discretion, may reject any or all bids made in pursuance of such advertisements and, in the event of such rejection, the comptroller is authorized to readvertise for bids in the form and manner above described as many times as, in his judgment, may be necessary to effect a satisfactory sale. The proceeds of bonds sold pursuant to this act shall be paid into the treasury and shall be available only for the work or object authorized by this act in accordance with appropriations therefrom made or to be made by the legislature for such work or object.

§ 3. The comptroller is hereby authorized and directed to borrow, on the faith and credit of the state, in anticipation of the receipt of proceeds of the sale of the bonds authorized by this act, pursuant to the state finance law, sufficient money to pay the legal demands authorized by appropriations theretofore or thereafter made by the legislature for the purpose for which a state debt is authorized to be created by this act.

§ 4. This law shall not take effect unless and until it shall have been submitted to the people at a general election and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election and such law shall be submitted to the people of this state at the general election to be held in November, nineteen hundred and thirty-two. The ballots to be furnished for the use of the voters upon the submission of this law shall be in the form prescribed by the election law and the proposition or question to be submitted shall be printed thereon in substantially the following form, namely: "Shall chapter (here insert the number of the chapter) of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirty-two, entitled 'An act authorizing the creation of a state debt, to the amount of thirty million dollars ($20,000,000), to provide funds, to be available from November fifteenth, nineteen hundred thirty-two to January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, to relieve the people of the state from the hardships and suffering, caused by unemployment, and the effects thereof on the public health and welfare, including the granting of aid to municipalities for such purpose, through such agencies and by such ways and means as the legislature shall have prescribed or hereafter may prescribe for the administration and distribution of temporary emergency relief and the cost thereof, and providing for the submission to the people of a proposition or question therefor to be voted upon at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred thirty-two,' be approved?"

FORM OF SUBMISSION OF PROPOSITION NUMBER ONE

Shall chapter five hundred sixty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirty-two, authorizing the creation of a state debt, to the amount of thirty million dollars ($20,000,000), to provide funds, to be available from November fifteenth, nineteen hundred thirty-two to January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, to relieve the people of the state from the hardships and suffering, caused by unemployment, and the effects thereof on the public health and welfare, including the granting of aid to municipalities for such purpose, through such agencies and by such ways and means as the legislature shall have prescribed or hereafter may prescribe for the administration and distribution of temporary emergency relief and the cost thereof, be approved?

[illegible] BUSINESS MEN ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

See?

Chicago—To be in style you should have a separate pair of spectacles for street wear, bridge playing, office or library, evening wear and motoring, optometrists, getting ready for an eye-glass style show declared.

Irving Cried: "Po-lice!"

Philadelphia—Two holdup men thought they could stop Irving Green of Swedesboro, N. J., by removing his shoes after they robbed him, but they failed to reckon with the power of speech. Green's cries brought a policeman who captured one suspect.

Close Call for Dorothy.

Baltimore—Bumping into a tombstone, as she walked across the new cathedral cemetery, eight-year-old Dorothy Sheets, barely escaped death. The 300-pound monument fell over and scraped her as it landed a foot away.

Zero Hour.

Independence, Kas. — Halfback Paul Rogers of the high school eleven believes he'd conserve energy if he were a "five yards" McCarthy rather than a "Red" Grange. In two games Rogers ran 42, 62 and 48 yards over the goal line, only to have the touchdowns nullified because of penalties.

"Is Dinner Ready?"

Wilmington, N. C.—For three hours rescuers dug frantically for Lee Rackley, 17, buried under four feet of sand in a 16-foot hole, where he had been repairing a pump.

When his head and shoulders were cleared, Lee's first words were "Is dinner ready?" He then asked for a chew of tobacco.

Bill Wants Food.

Kansas City, Kas.—Bill Cunningham, unemployed railroad fireman who maintained a long vigil outside Yankee Stadium to be the first general admission entry for the start of the world series, is willing to sacrifice a treasured trophy of the classic that he may eat. He has offered, to the highest bidder, a baseball autographed by baseball's great, including Babe Ruth.

Whassa Matter? Whassa Matter?"

Seattle—University of Washington co-eds will take many different sorts of jobs to support themselves, but apparently won't take their pay in osteopathic treatments.

The college placement bureau reports that a position in which a girl is wanted to work three hours in an office, in exchange for osteopathic treatments, remains unfilled.

Who Hit Frank?

Detroit—Frank Stian leaped from his bed to challenge prowlers, and the next he knew he was in a hospital. It was an even battle, he explained, until "one of the prowlers hit me with a blackjack." Police who investigated said they found no signs of prowlers but plenty of signs to indicate that Stian, in his excitement, had struck his head on a radiator beside his bed.

Punter Wild, Two Hurt.

Milwaukee—William Martin, 17, and his grandmother were injured in a playground football game yesterday.

The grandmother, Mrs. Zoe Edwin, 64, was watching William play when an erratic punter kicked the ball among spectators.

Knocked down, Mrs. Edwin suffered concussion of the brain. While scrambling for the ball, William's wrist was injured and he rode to a hospital with his grandmother.

Mosquito's Enemies

The common goldfish and silverfish destroy mosquito larvae and should be put in artificial ponds. Top minnows of several species have been introduced successfully in several localities and feed on larvae. There are many predatory aquatic insects that feed upon larvae, while others catch the adults. Certain birds prey on the adults, and bats eat them.

Three Species of Bass

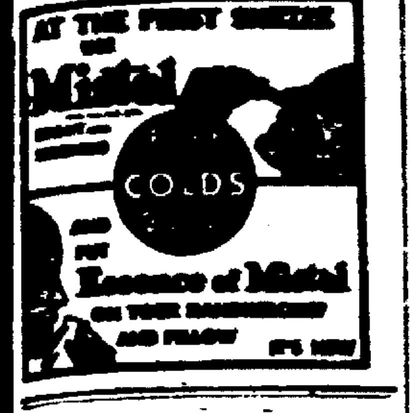
It is known that there are at least three species of black bass in America. In addition to the familiar large-mouthed and small-mouthed species the Kentucky bass was discovered in 1928 by Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, ichthyologist of the University of Michigan. This species is now receiving considerable attention from fish culturists in Ohio, Arkansas and other states.

Aristophanes
stands bewildered

Aristophanes remarked of women, 2300 years ago, "They dip their wool into hot water, according to the ancient plan, all of them without exception, and never make the slightest innovation. They sit and cook as of old. They carry upon their heads as of old." Could you summon Aristophanes into our today—he would stand appalled at the speed of women's present innovations.

Just about everything you are accustomed to becomes outmoded, discarded, in an incredibly brief time. Ways of cooking, serving, traveling; of keeping clean, healthy, beautiful, young—these are the modern tasks, "as of old." But science in alliance with factories and kitchens keeps new ways coming along so fast that poor old Aristophanes and those soft-sandaled women would be breathless with keeping up. Yet you are used to swift change . . . used to comforts that a short while ago were luxuries . . . that a little day from now will seem Grecian-quaint themselves. From advertisements in your daily newspaper you reap news of these ways to live healthfully, richly, advantageously—young!

Sit and cook as of old? Carry upon your head as of old? No, you carry in your head knowledge of the best that is buyable. Advertisements give you easy, happy surveys of new ways. Glance over all the advertisements you can, every chance you have.



Parent-Teacher Associations

Hurley P.-T. A.

The regular meeting of the Hurley Parent-Teacher Association was held on Friday afternoon, October 14, at the school. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Angus Rowse, after which "America, the Beautiful", was sung by the members.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Jason E. Carle, president of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8, Kingston.

Mrs. Carl gave a most interesting account of the convention of New York state parents and teachers which was held in Albany the week of October 3. The theme of the convention was "Our Children, Their Requirements and Opportunities."

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Carle for her very interesting presentation.

A letter was received from Mrs. Joseph A. Smith, Ulster county director, announcing the Ulster county P.-T. A. conference to be held at the Kingston Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday, October 19. All members are invited to attend.

During the business session of the meeting it was decided to have a drinking fountain established in the school. This will be installed immediately.

Preparations are now being made for a card party which will be held at the Hurley school on November 18.

Following the business session of the meeting delightful refreshments were served by various ladies of the association.

"A capable workman," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "will not boast of the ease with which a task can be performed. Each task may present new difficulties which should be studied in silent sincerity."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Van Keuren Was Hurt in Accident

Mrs. Eleanor Van Keuren of Washingtonville, Orange county, was severely injured in an automobile accident which happened about four o'clock Saturday afternoon and which involved two light delivery Ford trucks and the Chevrolet sedan in which she was riding.

The accident occurred near the Port Ewen school house. As told to Deputy Sheriff Abram Molyneaux, who investigated the affair, the truck driven by George Huth of Esopus, going south, was struck as it was making a left turn into a side road by a truck containing John and Vail Norton of Far Rockaway, which was proceeding north. After striking the Huth truck the Norton car swerved across the road and struck the car in which Mrs. Van Keuren was riding and which was driven by John D. Easman of Washingtonville, and which had been following the Huth car.

The Huth truck, which was struck in the right rear, had to be towed to a garage. The Norton truck was damaged in the left front and the front of the Easman sedan was quite badly damaged.

Mrs. Van Keuren was taken to the Kingston Hospital, where her injuries were treated by Dr. Harold Shenker, who reports her condition today as good. She suffered fractures of the collar bone, shoulder and several ribs and lacerations of the face and forehead. Easman and Norton were also treated at the hospital for abrasions and lacerations, Easman having a deep laceration on the hand.

Two Escape from Wallkill Prison

Thomas Smith, a Brooklyn bandit, and Peter Williamson, a New York city forger, escaped late Saturday night from the Medium Security Prison at Wallkill, and are believed to have robbed Emory Tucker of Modena, of his automobile half an hour after the escape and less than five miles from the prison.

Tucker was beaten by two young men who flagged his automobile on a dark highway, ejected him from the car, a Pontiac carrying the New York license tag 9D4347, and sped away south. The car held about five gallons of gas.

The two escaped prisoners were working as a cook and waiter in the officers' mess quarters a short way from the wooden barracks of the 112 prisoners kept at Wallkill. A check-up by guards shortly before midnight disclosed that they had gone, making the fourth escape from the new prison.

The senator is in fine fettle. He gives no indication of advancing years, and deeply is interested in the re-election of President Hoover.

Blames Local Authorities

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP).—Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, said today a preliminary report by William Woodruff, prohibition administrator at Cincinnati, on the fatal shooting yesterday of a dry agent and a deputy sheriff at Russellville, Ky., indicated "that the local authorities were entirely to blame." He did not make public Woodruff's report, pending an investigation now in progress.

Slightly more than 73 per cent of all farms in Illinois had motor trucks in the 1930 census, whereas in the 1920 census only 2.5 per cent of the farms were thus equipped.

VELVET HATS FOR AUTUMN IS DICTUM

Beret and Turban Theme Is Most Popular.

The velvet hat, especially the small one, in versions of the beret and turban theme, is seen everywhere.

The latest note, inspired by Agnes, is the set of turban, with matching scarf or belt, which may be used to give a smart autumn touch to your street or afternoon costume.

For formal wear, you may choose a copy of Agnes' close-fitting black velvet turban, caught at either side of the front with clips of strass. Worn with this is a black velvet scarf, tied in a large bow above the waistline. Hat and scarf are made of wide velvet ribbon, with a soft close pile.

Copied from the same designer is a dashing beret, in her favorite new ruby-red velvet, molded closely to the head, with the fullness draped forward over the right eye.

A very practical fashion is the new beret, made of sheer chiffon velvet, with tiny threads of elastic woven through it to give it that smart shirred look. This beret may be perched at any angle on the head, and stay put. And the younger set wears it with sports clothes, street frocks or afternoon chiffons.

VELVET GLOVES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is inevitable that the fashion world will be hearing more and more of velvet gloves as the season progresses. They were such a novelty at their first showing we had to grow into the idea. However they improve on acquaintance and they grow into your consciousness. They really add a fascinating touch to the more formal costume. A velvet afternoon suit, for instance, with velvet gloves artfully tuned to the color scheme is most attractive. Velvet gloves add a superb touch to the evening gown. With her informal evening gown of sapphire blue dull velvet milady here pictured is wearing velvet gloves and carrying a velvet pocketbook. Three sapphire clips surrounded by brilliants add a decorative note.

STYLE NOTES

Black takes on novel dashes of color.

A new knitted weave resembles crinkly crepe.

Loose three-quarter coats are the latest for daytime wear.

Much fine shirring and smocking style the newest blouses.

Popular Vogue for Furs Uses Pelts of All Kinds

Furs are abundant—both as scarfs and as trimmings—in the new assortments of winter clothes that Paris is making. So popular is the present French vogue for furs that pelts of all kinds are being used.

There are the long-haired foxes, of both the silver and lighter beige and brown varieties; there are the mid-length furs, like dyed skunk and the fur known as ragondin; and there are innumerable quantities of the flat furs—astrakhan, caracul, shaved lamb, breitschwantz and other varieties.

Plaid Velvet Trim

Plaid velvets are something new in trims this fall. Several designers use dull velvets stamped with bright Scotch plaid designs, as scarfs and crossed fichu effects on wool and dull crepe frocks.

Horse's Pulling Power

In determining the average pulling power of a horse, much depends on the kind of surface over which an object is pulled, its tractive qualities and the resistance of the object to be moved. In actual pulling contests horses have generated more than ten horse power.

TRAVEL BARRIERS

Foreign visitors who find American immigration and customs officials a little less than hospitable may take comfort from the fact that Uncle Sam is just as hardboiled in his treatment of his own nieces and nephews returning from a few weeks or months abroad. One recently returned traveler tells his troubles as follows:

First, although the boat got in at ten o'clock in the evening, no one could land, because the immigration officials do not begin their official duties before eight in the morning. Even when they came aboard, much time was consumed in official conference as to where to hold the inspection, and so on. Eventually that was over, and the joyous travelers turned to the customs inspection. This involved further long waits, much standing in line, much unwinding of red tape about an American-made car which had been driven 30,000 miles but which the customs authorities suspected the family of importing to sell. Customs officers in all lands are pests, says the traveler in conclusion, but of all lands in his rather wide experience, America is the hardest to get into.

All of which, even if slightly exaggerated, is familiar enough to homecoming Americans. Travel, which ought to be made easy and pleasant, is made difficult because of national jealousies and trade barriers. When war fears are really ended, when tariffs are restored to reasonable limits, there will not be all this nuisance and suspicion at national frontiers and ports of entry. Travelers will be shown the same welcome and courtesy by officials as they are shown by other natives once they get inside a country's borders.

NEW MISSIONARY METHOD.

A laymen's committee representing seven Protestant denominations, after two years' study of missionary work in Asia, suggests new procedure to suit new conditions. Sweeping changes have affected the East they say, like the West. There is a different theological outlook, there is a new world culture and there is a new nationalism, all of which might well be recognized. Western Christianity, they explain, has shifted its message from the negative to the affirmative side; it has become a religion not of fear but of love. It no longer argues about theology and science, but tries to do good and to point out the supreme good. Since there is a world culture, with means of universal communication, the committee raises the question why the missionary must leave his home to convey his message. All important ideas can penetrate anywhere.

Here is what an irreverent reader might call "a hot one." The Orient, says the committee, has gained "a disconcerting consciousness of the defects of western culture, much sharpened by the great war, and a much more critical attitude toward our institutions, our democracy, our education, our religion." Wherefore, "for the sake of securing for Christianity a fair hearing, it is necessary to separate it from our history and our promoting agencies and to present it in its universal capacity."

Meaning, in plain English, that Christendom itself has been un-Christian; and so, in presenting the Gospel to the heathen, Christendom should say as little as possible about its own history and life, but let the Gospel speak for itself. It reminds one of the advice that an intemperate old Pennsylvania minister used to give his congregation: "Don't do as I do; do as I tell you!"

LAW AND COURTS.

"There has been a constant increase in disrespect for law, lawyers and the courts," says a judge, "and the only way in which this respect can be regained is to earn it. We can earn it only by striving to eliminate injustice from the law wherever we find it." He would like to have the judiciary keep in touch with legislatures, reporting the results of laws, whether good or bad, and recommending improvements whenever there was need of them.

Some method of keeping statutory law up to the requirements of the times is undoubtedly one of the essentials, and this would probably be as good a method as any. There is another powerful factor, however, in failure of courts to do full justice. Not only do written laws grow obsolete, but judicial interpretations grow obsolete. We can never suit our justice to contemporary life until our courts attach less importance to precedents established under different conditions. Who will bring the unprogressive judges up to date?

CONTROLLING EPILEPSY

Some years ago a research physician took a group of epileptics and by a very simple treatment was able to prevent an attack in every one of the group for a period of ten days. Before this treatment some of these patients were having a number of attacks every day, and others three or four every week.

What was the treatment?

He gave them no food whatever.

Of course this treatment could not be continued, because food must be eaten or death ensues, but it did show that food is the factor in starting epileptic attacks. The underlying cause of epilepsy, the convulsions, has not as yet been discovered.

However as the above experiment showed that what is taken into the stomach affects the brain in a manner to cause the epileptic attacks, research physicians have now laid out a system of treatment that prevents attacks in most cases, and lessens their severity in others.

In hospital, children are required to do without food within safe limits, and a large quantity of fat is given—butter, cream, fat meat.

The home treatment as outlined by Dr. M. G. Peterman, Milwaukee, is as follows: (1) a definite daily routine which includes a long nap, and a long sleep, meals at regular hours and a daily bowel movement; (2) cutting down on the meat and eggs, and also on the starches—bread, potatoes, cakes, candies—and increasing the amount of fats eaten; (3) cutting down liquids to about a pint a day, or even less if the convulsions continue and (4) using the drug phenobarbital in large enough doses to control any seizures after or until the foregoing procedures are established.

In cases where the attacks come at regular intervals there appears to be a gradual accumulation of fluid in the brain causing a constant irritation, and a special operation has been of help here. The operation can only be used in about 20 percent of cases.

However the four rules mentioned above, hygienic living, less meat and starch, with more fats, cutting down on liquids, and the use of phenobarbital regularly, gives to every patient a means of controlling this dread ailment.

In the meantime the cause of epilepsy is being sought for diligently by research workers all over the world.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: About to meet death with her husband, Jervis Weare, on the rising tide, Nan finds the key to her prison where Robert Leonard had dropped it. Released, they creep up the passage out of reach of the water, only to find the trap door closed. They are blocked—with freedom in sight.

Chapter 49

"BRAN FOUND YOU"

ROSAMUND stood just inside Robert Leonard's door, waiting. She was drenched, her clothing torn. She had been half an hour covering the few hundred yards between the Tetterley house and where she stood.

"Bad night for travel," she said, looking at a half packed suitcase on a chair.

"Best for both of us. You'll finish us coming here like this. I'm off before you fit a rope around my neck."

"That's not the chief reason. Where's Jervis?"

"You'll have to dive to find him!"

Rosamund stood quite still for a moment, then ran for the door. She was flung aside.

"How dare you!"

"You're not going down; the water's well up to the roof by now!"

Rosamund calmly walked to the telephone and lifted the receiver.

"Give me Croyston police station." She covered the mouthpiece. "Am I going down?" She looked into the mouth of Leonard's automatic; her eyes were steady.

"I'm worth something alive," she said coolly.

"Don't bluff me!"

A thrumming came from the instrument.

"That was bluff," she admitted. "But the operator's here now. She can hear shooting, too."

"Hang up that damned receiver!" he said.

Rosamund hung it up.

"Now look here—I'll tell you the whole bed-rock truth. I wasn't to know you were liable to get a crazy tide when there was a storm—was I? I did my best. I went down into that damn passage and found the whole place under water. I went in up to my neck—I couldn't do more than that. I suppose you didn't expect me to drown myself?"

"No," said Rosamund—just the one word, hard and cold. Then she put out her hand. "Give me the key—I'm going down."

"Not much!"

She struck him a stinging blow in the face, and at the same moment there came the sound of loud and heavy knocking upon the back door.

"Who is it?" said Rosamund suddenly. The fight had gone out of her.

"I don't know. They mustn't see you."

Leonard opened the door and stepped out into the passage; and as he did so, the wind blew in through the kitchen, and along with it came Bran, and, separated from him by a short length of chain, Ferdinand Francis. They seemed to be in a hurry.

Robert Leonard shut the door sharply behind him. He thought regretfully of the automatic on the office table.

Bran pulled on his chain, growling, and Ferdinand said,

"We're calling for Mrs. Weare."

"I don't understand. It's Mr. Francis isn't it?"

"Where is she?" said Ferdinand sharply.

"I haven't the slightest idea what you're talking about."

"You'd better have! I got back from a wild goose chase an hour ago, and I found a note from Nan to say she was coming here to find Jervis."

"I really don't know what you're talking about, Mr. Francis."

Ferdinand lengthened the chain, and as Leonard jumped back, the great dog ran snuffing up the passage. He pushed whining against the door Nan had stood behind. Ferdinand with a quick movement flung open the other door, and was taken completely aback. Rosamund Carew was leaning on the study table in an attitude of careless indifference. Ferdinand dropped Bran's chain in his surprise.

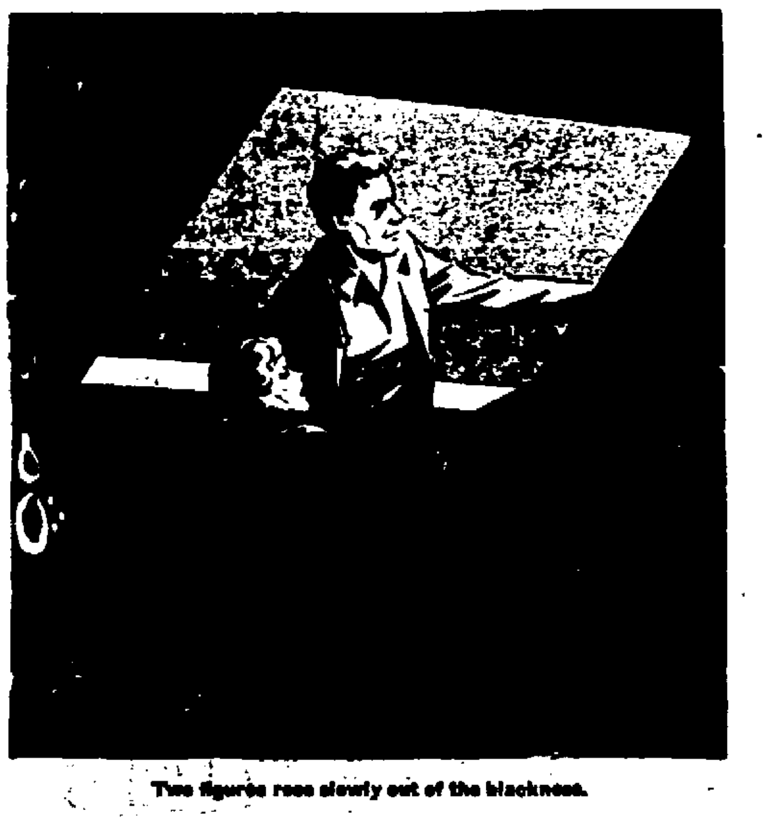
"Isn't this a very early visit?" said Rosamund. "Hullo, Bran!"

The dog wrinkled his brows, snuffed the air, and backed away from her outstretched hand.

"Where's Nan?" said Ferdinand.

"Well—not here."

"She said she was coming here," Ferdinand began; and then he saw Leonard's pistol lying where he had thrown it. He pocketed it, then turned to see Bran with his nose to the ground.



Two figures rose slowly out of the blackness.

"Seek her, boy—seek her!" he said, and followed back to the kitchen, and across the kitchen to a door behind the dresser where Bran scratched and whined.

As they went down the steps into the cellar, Robert Leonard let himself out of the front door. He had to crawl thirty yards to reach the shelter of the garage.

Bran was snuffing and scraping at the trap. Ferdinand began to roll the barrel away, and as he did so, there came a knocking on the under side of the trap.

Rosamund stood where she was, and saw the barrel and the shadow of the barrel move together. She saw Ferdinand take hold of the iron ring that had been under the barrel and heave. She saw the trap rise, and Bran's great head thrust forward. He whined frantically. And then she saw Jervis coming up out of the trap, and her heart stood still and her bones turned to water. A drowned man might look like that. He came up higher, and she saw Nan's face against his shoulder deathly white. Her eyes were closed, and her lips a little parted.

Jervis took a step forward and then stopped, and there was a sudden dead silence.

Then Nan opened her eyes. Her gaze passed Rosamund and rested on Ferdinand.

"Did you—find us?"

"Bran found you."

"Where's Leonard?" said Jervis harshly.

He and Ferdinand ran through the empty house, out into the raw, stormy dawn. They saw Leonard's car laboring toward the cliff road. They saw it lurch, swing across the road, the irresistible gale behind it.

A huge gust caught it like a chip. It dropped over the edge into the sea.

"Let's go back to Nan, F. F.," said Jervis.

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB HELD SESSION THURSDAY.

The Kingston Junior Music Club held its meeting Thursday, October 13, with a goodly attendance of interested members.

The musical memory contest, which was in charge of the president, Shirley Snyder, proved a real stimulant to the pupils to recognize familiar pieces of true musical value.

Next meeting there will be a radio concert artists' contest, which will be in charge of Ruth Brinnier, who was one of the winners of the Community Concert Association contest.

The study course which will be continued through the year, belongs to the Junior and Juvenile Better Musicianship Leagues of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

The program of the meeting opened with a vocal solo, "The Cricket," by Joan Craig, accompanied by Phyllis Craft. This was followed by a piano solo, "Soldiers' March," which was admirably played by Eugene MacConnell. Beverly Van Norstrand played two selections in a very musical manner. These were followed by a biographical sketch of the composer Schumann, given by Phyllis Craft, who also played one of the composer's pieces from "The Album for the Young." Anna Gilbert next played a Folk Tune. Shirley Snyder concluded the program.

The rehearsal of the Rhythm Band proved of much interest. The accompanists were Shirley Snyder and Ruth Brinnier.

The chorus which concluded the meeting consisted of English Folk Tunes and Rounds. Each section of the club centers around the piano.

The next meteing will be November 10.

Love Potions in Demand

"There are thousands of women in England today who still believe in love potions made from certain herbs," said Mrs. L. M. Pheysey, a member of Bristol city council, at a museum conference in Birmingham, England. "Many women still have minds like untrained children, and the love of witchcraft is in every woman's heart."

Golfer Warren's bet, at 1 to 10, that he could sink a hole-in-one at 135 yards—the second hole of the Brae Burn course in Houston—in an hour, was what most golfers would term the ultimate in confidence. Sinking a hole-in-one in six months is not to be bet on, but to bet on one in an hour is almost incredible.

Warren was allowed to hit as many balls as he wanted to, or could within the hour, and to use any club. As it turned out he drove exactly 160 balls and spent 53 minutes knocking ball after ball into a stiff cross wind before he sank a ball to win his bet. He used every club in his bag except the putter—and made the successful shot with a No. 2 iron.

* * *

Although aluminum is the most abundant metal in the earth's crust, not so many years ago it was rarer to man than gold. Early Romans were familiar with aluminum salts, but not until 1750 was aluminum recognized as a metal. The metal does not occur in nature in its metallic state, and efforts of early scientists to smelt its ores were unsuccessful. In the late nineteenth century alloys of aluminum were obtained, but not until 1907 was the pure metal refined.

The metal, then, because of its rarity, was very expensive. It was used to some extent in making jewelry. Since then less expensive methods of obtaining aluminum from its abundant ores have reduced the cost of the metal where it now rivals iron and steel in structural use, where weight is a consideration.

POCAMA

Pocama, Oct. 17—Mrs. Susie Whittaker, Mrs. Susie Elliott, Mrs. Burton Dudley and baby, Marilyn, spent Friday with Mrs. Claude Frasier in Allaben.

Oscar Dudley was a caller in this place Friday.

There was a large attendance at church Sunday, in the Pocama schoolhouse. A very interesting sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Bonner of Allaben.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Giles and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones spent Sunday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gerthompson in Atwood.

Adjutant Wood and Mrs. Wood and family of Kingston were recently entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott.

On Saturday morning, October 1, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones set forth on a well earned vacation. They followed Route 9 by way of Albany to a place called Upper Jay, about two miles out of Lake George, where they had dinner. They stayed for the week-end with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lawrence. On Sunday they took a trip to Lake Placid in the Adirondacks, then down through the Cascade Lakes, back home. Sunday afternoon they attended church at the Upper Jay schoolhouse. The services were conducted by Louis Houghtsteiner, who is well known in this section. The church was so crowded that extra seats had to be brought in to accommodate the people. Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jones were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Houghtsteiner. Monday morning they started for home, motoring to Chestertown, then across country to Ticonderoga. Here they crossed between the two lakes, Lake George and Lake Champlain, and then on down to Whitehall. At this point they entered the state of Vermont and were within 50 miles of the birthplace of Calvin Coolidge. They stayed at night in Pawlet, Vermont. Tuesday morning they came over Prue Mountain into Brattleboro, Vt. From there they motored to Greenfield, Mass., then up over the famous Mohawk Trail to North Adams. The next stop was Springfield, Mass., and then Great Barrington, Mass. They were getting nearer home now, so they headed for Hudson, N. Y., where they crossed the ferry, and within a short time were once more at home in Pocama, tired but happy after the long trip.

Sioux "Mothers"

A little Sioux girl was brought to school by her mother. The next day she was accompanied by a different woman whom she claimed was also her mother. But with the advent of a third woman also called "mother" the teacher investigated the child's veracity only to learn that in the Sioux language the same term applies to the real mother and to each of the mother's sisters!

The Campaign Puzzle

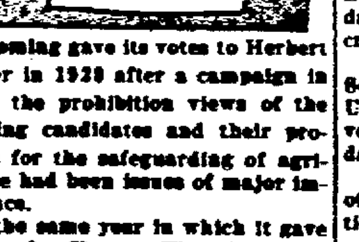
Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of 16 articles showing how states voted in the 1928 presidential election and pointing out developments since.)

Wyoming's Vote for President in 1928:

Hoover	52,748
Smith	29,299

Wyoming's electoral votes were cast for William Jennings Bryan in his first campaign and for Woodrow Wilson in 1912 and 1916. In the seven other elections from 1892 to 1928 its record has caused the state to be regarded as normally Republican.



Wyoming gave its votes to Herbert Hoover in 1928 after a campaign in which the prohibition views of the opposing candidates and their programs for the safeguarding of agriculture had been issues of major importance.

In the same year in which it gave its vote for Hoover, Wyoming elected a Democrat, John B. Kendrick, to the United State senate by a vote of 43,032 to 37,076.

In the off-year elections of 1930, Wyoming chose a Republican for its second senator, giving Robert D. Carey 43,173 votes against 30,128 for his Democratic opponent.

In the same year Frank Emerson (R) was elected governor by a majority of less than 1,500 votes. Upon Emerson's death he was succeeded by A. M. Clark, secretary of state, also a Republican.

Wyoming's interest in the present election has centered primarily upon the programs of the two parties for the rehabilitation of the agricultural and stock raising industries.

Wyoming has three electoral votes.

Minnesota's vote for President in 1928:

Hoover	560,977
Smith	396,451

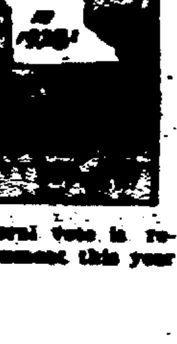
Minnesota has been regarded as one of the staunchest of Republican states on the basis of a record which shows but one break in 60 years. In 1912 Minnesota gave its votes to Theodore Roosevelt, progressive.

The rise of the farmer-labor party in recent years has injected a new element into the state political situation, and observers this year are attempting to weigh its influence in the national election.

Floyd B. Olson, farmer-laborite, was elected governor in 1930 with 473,154 votes against 289,528 for the Republican and 29,109 for the Democratic candidate. Olson's candidacy had the support of many Democrats.

In the same year Thomas D. Schall (R) was re-elected to the United States senate with 293,626 votes against 282,018 for Einar Hoidale (D).

The Farmer-labor party took no official part in the presidential election of 1928. Governor Olson this year has voiced a personal preference for Franklin D. Roosevelt.



Economy in government expenditures has been a dominant issue in the current campaign, with prohibition also winning much attention in popular discussions.

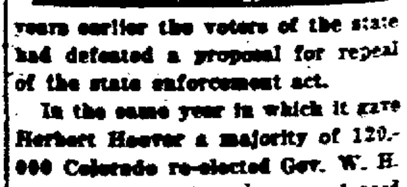
Minnesota's electoral vote is reduced by reapportionment this year from 12 to 11.

Colorado's vote for President in 1928:

Hoover	253,872
Smith	133,131

Colorado, which cast its vote three times for William Jennings Bryan and twice for Woodrow Wilson, has voted for Republican candidates in the last three presidential elections.

Alfred E. Smith's views on prohibition were a major topic of discussion in the campaign of 1928. Two years earlier the voters of the state had defeated a proposal for repeal of the state enforcement act.



In the same year in which it gave Herbert Hoover a majority of 120,000 Colorado re-elected Gov. W. H. Adams (D) with an unprecedented majority.

In the state elections of 1930, Governor Adams was re-elected for a third term with a majority of [illegible]000 and E. P. Costigan (D) was elected to the United States senate with a majority of 42,000.

The primaries of last September brought three out of every four of the state's registered voters to the polls. In the Democratic primary 134,030 votes were cast and in the Republican 113,258.

Colorado's huge mining industry has caused voters to study with unusual interest all pronouncements in the current campaign having to do with silver. Proposals affecting the state's beet sugar industry also have received close attention.

Colorado has six electoral votes.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The tuckin in formal blouses continues the favored expression of this type of blouse among costume houses, as second collections of suits show. Even with three-quarter length coats of this formal description, the tuckin rules, whether in metal tissue or satin.

Metal cloth in blouses has been seen once or twice in silver, rather than gold. There is one stunning blouse of silver, approaching steel, made on the extremely short-waisted overblouse lines of Schiaparelli's sweaters of last spring and summer.

Popular price blouses attest to the favor for short-sleeved blouses. The extremely short sleeve that is a variation of a cap sleeve is less seriously regarded than the "push-up" or circular cut, and of voluminous width. The idea goes over "big" with the young set.

Navy Blue Ensemble in Ribbed Woolen

(Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild)

Fabric used lengthwise and crosswise is the feature of this ensemble of navy blue novelty ribbed woolen. The dress has a white lingerie collar and blue buttons matching those of the coat. The latter is the very full swagger three-quarter coat. A small navy felt hat with the brim turned up all around and trimmed with grosgrain ribbon accompanies this ensemble. Model from Mainbocher.

Back to Big Sleeves and Buttons

New York—Do you remember when you would have thought big sleeves looked funny? They don't though, do they? Some may be extreme but some you must agree are graceful and quite flattering, particularly those with tight cuffs, elbow high and decorated.

It is for such decorative effects that sequins have been brought back into action, for cuffs and for some of the bodice decorations which are arranged to emphasize width across the shoulders. Silver, steel, copper and gold are all in use. Their popularity may be determined in the order given. Tiny star motifs are becoming important, and in jewelry too, by the way.

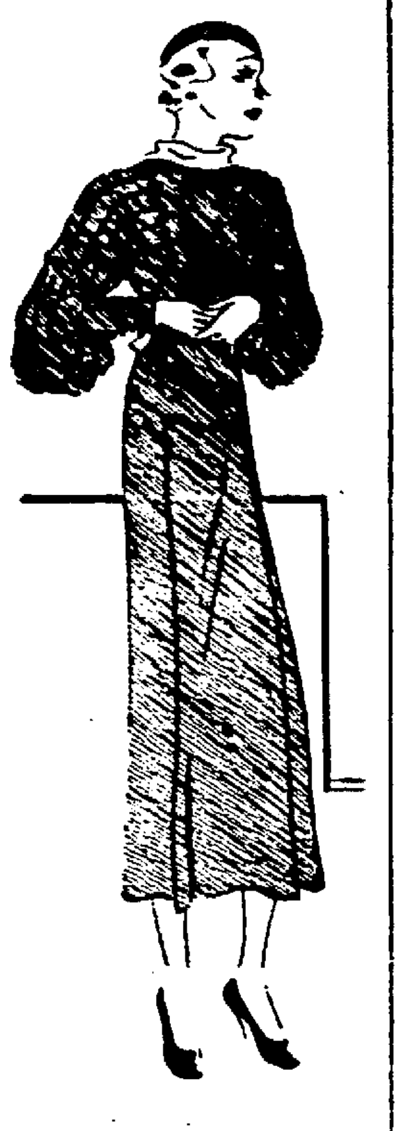
Even when vivid colors are chosen for a gown they are made more gay by the addition either of metal ornaments or of costume jewelry. Dressmakers seem determined to introduce a sparkle in costumes which might, because of the character of the fabrics used, be too dull.

Doting on the surprise as fashion does, it is not to be wondered at that she introduces two rows of buttons where one might expect one, or one where one might expect two. Taken on the whole there are many double-breasted models but these are usually to be found among the shorter waisted ones. The model sketched makes an interesting use of buttons, in a double row too although the term double breasted hardly applies.

Buttons are extremely important. They may be used more or less as one pleases, not necessarily in relation to the fastening. It becomes daily more impossible to even contemplate a frock slipping over one's head. It just must fasten somewhere for neck openings are far from adequate.

Rhinestones sound a good deal more garish than they really are. Rhinestone buttons, buckles, clips and other ornaments are aces high for evening. The costume jewelry sections in the shops also blaze with them, and in pieces for every purpose from a hat ornament to a shoe buckle.

A RASPBERRY CREPE FROCK



Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

The dress is in raspberry rough crepe, with crystal buttons as trimming. Contrast is reflected in the flesh color collar, this tone repeated in the facing of the sash that ties at the back.

Some Things to Know About Coats

Caracul is a fur which must be mentioned here as gaining favor. It is the finer flat qualities that are worn—the interest encouraged by their resemblance to real broadtail, which Paris courturiers used to trim some of the models which have proved most popular here. Lauvin's fur sleeved coat, Mainbocher's tunic coat, Paquin's fur band treatment, the draped shawl introduced by Martial et Armand are a few of the details which are now popularly interpreted in caracul. Gray, brown and black are all liked. The use of mole in gray and in logwood shades is also notable, the latter effective on gray with a beige cast.

Abducted Man And Captors Are Found

Hull, Mass., Oct. 17 (AP).—A quietly conducted police investigation into the disappearance of Herman F. Rutstein, Boston theatrical supply dealer, had resulted today in Rutstein's rescue, the arrest of three men and a search for five others believed members of a professional kidnaping ring.

Rutstein, who was abducted from his home in the Dorchester section of Boston last Tuesday, was rescued yesterday during a police raid on a small beach cottage in the now deserted summer section of Hull. He had been held a prisoner there since his abduction and was bound and blindfolded almost continuously.

The three arrested men, taken from the cottage in which Rutstein was found, were charged with kidnaping. They gave their names and addresses as Joseph Gould, 34, and Walter M. Addison, 28, both of Boston, and William Harmon, 29, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Police said, however, that Gould's fingerprints identified him as Max Schecter of New York city.

A raiding force of 15 policemen found Rutstein, who is 32 years old, blindfolded and bound to an iron bed. The three men were turned over to Boston police.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

Named From Pioneer

Hang Up Your Stocking

You will recall that when you were a youngster you never went to bed on Christmas Eve without hanging up your stocking. You will also remember that there was never any question in your mind that you would find it the following morning well filled with all of the things you had expressed a wish for.

Father and mother attended to the "filling" in those days, but in these days, you, Mr. Man, are obliged to fill your own business stocking or it will go empty and aye "there's the rub." Right here you expect us to hand you out a lot of bromide advice as to how you should go about filling your business stocking, but we are not going to do anything of the kind. May we say this, however, we know quite a few business men who are so down in the mouth that they very foolishly are not even hanging up their stockings, let alone working hard to fill them.

Chapter 1

THE DON'T CARE GIRL

CLIVE had made clsely what he was going to tell her depended on his reception. If she drove him to extremities, he would propose. But to become engaged before his prospects were brighter didn't strike him as honest. That she was rich was his misfortune. Besides, she was so young; he himself was only four years her senior.

Some of this he had tried to write, but had torn up the letters. Letters said too much. Practically what his had said was, "I adore you and don't approve of you." Not to approve of anyone implied distrust. All of this would be changed when he was certain she belonged to him.

That afternoon he had taken the first step by phoning her.

"That you, Santa? Are you free this evening?"

"Sorry. I wish you'd called sooner."

A gay laugh.

"'Fraid it'll have to."

"But see here," his tone had ceased to be casual. "If I don't say it now, I may never."

"Then say it."

"Can't across the wire."

A pause.

"You were with me till midnight. Why didn't you say it then?"

"I know. But I've been thinking. I've reached a sort of crisis. Don't hang up. This date you've made—can't you shelve it?"

A longer pause.

"I might. Tell you what—be at my house by eight-thirty. If I'm not at home, wait for me."

"But you will be?"

"Listen." Her voice had caressed him. "That's a kiss. It's for you."

Had any other girl done that it would have meant a lot. When Santa did it, it only meant that she was amiable.

Her name was all wrong. That was where the mischief had started. Whoever heard of christening a she-American baby Santa? A Spanish nurse had been responsible. Strangely misjudging the latent propensities of her charge, she had addressed her as "My Saint."

The endearment had been made permanent by baptism. The family name of Dawn had been sufficiently fantastic. When Santa was added, a flavor of quite unnecessary romance had been imported.

In a worried mood Clive set out to keep the appointment. It was an April evening—blue sky, white banks of clouds. He travelled by the Hudson Tube to Park Place, Newark, and from there hired a taxi. After the pavements of New York, flowering shrubs on green lawns impressed him as rural.

Tense with emotion, he struck the tree-bordered avenue in which the Dawns' town-house stood. Glancing at the windows he leapt out. A curtain moved. He was certain she was behind it. He made a wager with himself as he paid the taxi. "If she's postponed the other fellow, I'll propose to her."

The butler opened the door. Miss Santa was away. Two young gentlemen in an automobile had called for her. Mr. and Mrs. Dawn were at the theater. The information implied, "On your way, little one. There's nothing to detain you."

"That's all right, Goff," Clive insisted on entering. "Miss Santa's expecting me. She'll be back directly."

Clive's feeling that he was an intruder grew. The well-bred silence of the house rebuked him. Why had the entire family gone out? Was it to break the news that he wasn't welcome?

Dusk faded. Goff returned to switch on the lights and draw the blinds.

"I'm afraid Miss Santa may be late, sir. You know what she is, if I may say so, when she gets going. After nine I'm off duty. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"A broad hint," Clive surmised. "He wants to be rid of me."

As minutes ticked by he wondered how many suitors' humiliation this room had witnessed. Probably absence was her method of refusing.

His indignation mounted. She'd played him fast and loose. Rising, he was halted by an array of silver-framed photographs. There she was, the focus of his universe, gentle, remote, alluring—as a baby, schoolgirl, debutante. Strange how she never lost that angelic look. She seemed to appeal to him to believe in her.

At half-past eleven, when he had lost count of time, a key turning in the latch raised his hopes. Voices. He recognized her mother's.

"If she was in first, she was to scribble a note. Must be in the library; it's lit up like a lantern." A golden-headed woman, finely featured and Europeanized, parted the curtains. "O, it's you!"

"Santa asked me to wait," Clive excused his presence.

"How long have you been waiting?"

Clive grinned.

"Not more than three hours."

"Three hours did you say?" Mr. Dawn, athletic and fortyish, appeared behind his wife. "That's mighty mean of her. When did you make the appointment?"

"She's so young," Mrs. Dawn spoke conciliatingly.

"But to drag Clive from New York for nothing!"

"We'll tell her you were here." Her mother stifled a yawn.

"Offer him a bed, Judy," Mr. Dawn suggested.

The situation called for action. Clive was being given the chance of leaving or being smuggled into a bedroom. In either event he would miss his interview with Santa.

"Don't worry about me," he affected cheerfulness. "I only want a word with her. Won't take a minute. I'm accustomed to late hours."

Mr. Dawn turned away.

"Don't know how you nighthawks stand it."

Mrs. Dawn remained rooted.

"I would rather you left, Clive. Santa needs rest."

"I won't tire her," he promised.

"But how about yourself? You won't be fit for anything in the morning."

"I feel fresh as paint."

"A good deal fresher," Mrs. Dawn told her husband as she undressed.

"I don't blame the boy," Dawn stuck to his defence. "Santa treats all her beaux abominably and you encourage her."

In the library Clive's long visit had become a vigil. It was past one when an automobile halted against the pavement. He raised a corner of the blind. The youngster at the wheel was calling, "So long, baby."

The second rival was escorting her up the pathway. When the door had opened, there was a whispered conference, which ended in a scuffle and Santa proclaiming, "This isn't bargain day." The door closed.

Her back toward him, she was slipping the chain into place when he stepped into the hall. Hearing a footfall, she glanced timidly across her shoulder.

"How you scared me! Thought you were a burglar."

"Sorry," he apologised. "I've obeyed your instructions."

She continued to fumble with the chain.

"Let me do that.—"

She tripped into the library.

Without giving him a chance, she started to accuse herself.

"I'm not going to lie. It was rotten of me. I forgot all about you. What's the matter with me, Clive? What makes me so cruel?"

"Let's find out together."

Urging her to the couch, he seated himself beside her.

"You had something to tell me," she prompted.

"Yes. But it's late."

"I'll stay up with you if it takes till morning," she coaxed him.

"Well, it's this. Do you like me?"

"Don't be foolish."

"In love with me?"

She wriggled as though he'd knocked her funny-bone.

"It's so difficult to be certain."

"Then you can't be. No woman can be in love with more than one man at the same time."

"You've never been a woman."

"Well, here's what I mean. No woman has a right to be in love with more than one man at the same time."

"Who's to forbid her?"

Clive leaned forward.

"The man who worships her. Supposing I did to you what you've done to me this evening?"

"I'd be furious."

"Then why should you be privileged to do it to me?"

She flushed up her face, thrusting her lips closer.

"Because I'm a girl!"

He didn't soft-pedal. He told her that she was a flirt one minute, an aureoled angel the next. That she was being misled when she attributed to every admirer her own inconstancy. Her mission was to be sacred. His mission was to be inspired. Their joint mission was to draw the blinds and concentrate.

"But old sober-sides," she protested, "be sensible. How can I tell whether I prefer you till I've sampled?"

That was the last straw. As though the devil were behind him, he rushed into the hall and seized his hat.

"Till you've finished sampling, count me out," he pronounced his verdict.

Next morning Mrs. Dawn tackled her daughter.

"What's happened between you and Clive?"

"I'm not sure, Mummy. I think he tried to propose."

"Did you say yes?"

"I'm not sure, Mummy."

"In that case you will. There's no time to be lost. We'll sail for Europe. Not a word to your father of the reason."

I tried various prescriptions and other treatments but could get no relief and was about to give up hope when I tried Resinol Ointment. Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—(State Dept. of Agriculture and Markets)—The following quotations represent prices on sales by commission merchants and other original receivers on the New York city downtown wholesale district up to 8 a. m.

The market on upstate cabbage continued inactive due to the slow trading. Moderate supplies were available. Jobbing sales on bulk consignments of Danish white were on the basis of $12.00-$15.00 per ton and on red, best, $18.00-$19.00.

September weather has been against the best growth of state domestic cabbage. Drouth has injured the crop. The state has had only slightly more than one-half of its normal rainfall and worms and aphis have ruined many heads, while [illegible] have rotted in the field. With [illegible] low open market prices there is [illegible] incentive to harvest closely and [illegible] the wastage will be large. [illegible] Danish cabbage has declined [illegible] the month. Hot dry weather [illegible] by aphis and cabbage worms, has injured the outlook for a heavy crop. Much of the Danish cabbage is made during the month of October but many fields appear to be in such condition that it seems hardly possible that rains, should they come, will improve the prospects to a great extent.

Supplies of central and western New York grapes are greatly increasing. Prices averaged a trifle lower. No. 1 Concords and twelve-quart baskets realized from 22c to 25c and Niagaras 22c-23c.

Tells Why Records Should Be Kept

Dairymen of this county who are now keeping records of production on their cows are in a much more favorable position than is the average dairyman who keeps no records of milk and butterfat production, says Albert Kurdt, county Farm Bureau agent. The dairymen who have records can feed more economically and they can cull their unprofitable cows much more accurately. Careful culling and economical feeding should be generally followed on every dairy farm this fall. They are ways of combatting the low milk prices which now prevail.

A case of a small herd of six cows is used as an illustration to point out the value of careful cow culling. This herd was enrolled in the Farm Bureau Dairy Record Service in Orange county.

In this herd of six cows, there were five cows which produced respectively, 385 pounds of butterfat annually, 302 pounds, 380 pounds, 310 pounds and 361 pounds. The sixth cow in the herd only made 179 pounds of butterfat with the same feeding and care.

Here were five cows in this herd producing over 300 pounds of butterfat and one cow which produced only 179 pounds. This one co wwas apparently eating up the profit made by any one of the other five cows. Instead of making a profit from the five good cows, this dairyman only had the profits of four left. By disposing of the one poor cow, this dairyman would have left the proceeds from five cows instead of only four. In this case this dairyman would be better off with his five good cows than with five good cows and one poor one. It was through the Dairy Record Service that this dairyman was able to find this out. Where larger herds are kept, records are even more important than in small herds as there are apt to be more "boarders".

In the feeding of the herds of this county this fall and winter, records will save the dairymen considerable money. It is with records that the good cows are properly fed while the low producers are kept from receiving grain which they do not deserve. At the present time only 1,000 of the 13,000 dairy cattle in Ulster county are under some form of record keeping. The Farm Bureau will be glad to receive requests for information in regard to the various forms of dairy record service available.

SURVEY OF FARM TRUCKS MADE BY FARM BUREAU

Recently a questionnaire was sent out to all Farm Bureau members to get some definite information in regard to the increase in registration fees on trucks. The 65% increase which took effect on July 1, places a burden on farm trucks. The survey shows that the average farm truck uses the highways only about 1,200 miles per year. The increase in registration fee, translated into terms gas tax would mean an average tax of 16 cents per gallon.

The State Farm Bureau Federation through the various county Farm Bureaus is making the survey through its 35,000 members. The questionnaires will be summarised and used in taking suitable action at the Federation annual meeting in Syracuse, November 10 and 11.

The response from members in this county shows that farmers are deeply concerned over the burden placed on them by this increase reports Albert Kurdt, manager of the Farm Bureau. Many of the farmers report that they will not register their trucks under the new law when the 1932 registration expires on March 1, 1933. If the 250 Ulster county farmer truck owners are any indication, the total revenue from farm trucks will be much less under the new law because of the number that will not be licensed.

"Little Stories for Bedtime"

by Thornton W. Burgess

THE QUACKS GROW UNEASY

PETER RABBIT doesn't like the very hot weather of midsummer any more than you or I do. He cannot go to the seashore or the mountains as we can, and just think, he has to wear a fur coat all the time! Of course in this respect Peter is not worse off than a lot of his neighbors. In fact none of them likes the very hot weather. So with the coming of the first cool days in September new life seemed to fill Peter. He loves the fall. Next to the spring he likes the fall best. But for two things he thinks he might even like it the best of all the year. Those two things are the parting with old friends who are leaving for the far away sunny Southland, or who are preparing to sleep all winter, and the fact that the fall brings the dreadful hunting season when men with terrible guns delight in spreading terror and suffering over the Green Meadows, through the Green Forest, along the Laughing Brook, around the Smiling Pool, up in the Old Pasture and even deep in the Great Woods.

"What Are You So Glad About?" Demanded Mr. Quack.

The fall is a busy time for Peter. You see there are so many friends to say good-by to that he is afraid that some will slip away before he sees them. The first of the cool days had already come and Peter knew by things he saw that it would not be long before many of his feathered friends started on their long journey. Everywhere he saw them in flocks now instead of in pairs, as he saw them in the spring. They were making up parties for the long journey, for they prefer to travel in this way. It is quite necessary, because you know there are so many young birds for whom this will be the first time to make the long journey, and they must be shown the way by the older birds. Then it always is much pleasanter to travel with company.

A great party of blackbirds flying over the Old Brier Patch reminded Peter that it was quite likely that certain other friends would soon be starting, among others, the Quack family, who had spent this summer in the pond of Paddy the Beaver. So the first chance he got Peter hurried over to Paddy's Pond deep in the Green Forest. He was half afraid that they might have left already, and he half hoped that they might decide to stay all winter. When he got there he found Mr. and Mrs. Quack and the ten young Quacks, now as big as their father and mother, still there.

"Oh, I'm so glad!" cried Peter.

"What are you so glad about?" demanded Mr. Quack, swimming in close to where Peter was sitting on the bank.

"That you are still here," replied Peter. "I was afraid you might have gone away. Are you going to take that terrible journey again this year, Mr. Quack?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. Quack. "What else can I do?"

"Why, stay here all winter the same as I do," replied Peter.

"And what would we do when all the water has turned to ice, stupid?" demanded Mr. Quack.

Peter looked foolish. "I hadn't thought of that," said he. "Of course you have to go where the water doesn't freeze. Just the same I think it is dreadful that you have to take that terrible journey."

"It wouldn't be so bad if it were not for the hunters with terrible guns," replied Mr. Quack. "We don't mind the journey; it is the terrible guns. Have you seen any hunters near the Old Brier Patch yet?" Mr. Quack asked this anxiously.

"No," replied Peter.

"This cool weather is sure to bring them out," replied Mr. Quack uneasily. "I almost wish we had started earlier, but we have been so happy here this summer that I cannot bear to leave until we have to. What's that?" Mr. Quack started nervously and stretched his head up to listen. All the other ducks did the same thing. It was only the snapping of a twig under Buster Bear's feet, and in a moment he appeared.

At once the ducks dropped their heads and began swimming about again, for they did not fear Buster Bear. But it was very clear that they were uneasy, very uneasy, indeed, especially Mr. and Mrs. Quack. The young Quacks had had no experience with hunters, but they were uneasy, too. The truth is they were anxious to try their wings. They were looking forward to that long journey as something very wonderful. They were anxious to be on their way. Something inside was urging them to start for their beautiful Southland. It is often that way with the young. They did not fear because they did not know.

SOME SWEET THINGS

THERE are many people who do not enjoy a meringue. The following pie is made with the eggs folded in and makes a filling like sponge cake:

Lemon Sponge Pie.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter with two of flour, add the well-beaten egg yolks of two eggs, the juice and rind of a lemon. Mix well and stir in one cupful of milk, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, and fold in the beaten whites. Pour into an uncooked pastry shell and bake until firm.

Sweetmeat Wishes.—Put one-half cupful of candied orange peel, one cupful each of dates, figs, walnut meats and candied cherries through the meat chopper, add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and knead until well mixed. Toss on a board dusted well with powdered sugar, roll out to one-fourth inch in thickness and cut into small rounds with a cutter. When stiff frost with a plain orange icing and decorate with bits of cherry and citron.

Orange Squares.—Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water. Add one-fourth cupful of chopped nuts to the gelatin; add one-fourth cupful of orange juice, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and the grated rind of an orange. Boil together one cupful of sugar and three-fourths cupful of hot water to the soft ball stage, remove from the heat and add the gelatin, stir and cook for ten minutes. Pour into a pan and sprinkle with four tablespoonfuls of chopped nutmeats.

Fig Pudding.—Cream one-third of a cupful of fat with one cupful of sugar. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, one-half cupful of milk added alternately with two cupfuls of flour sifted with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one teaspoonful of salt. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Bake in a quick oven. Cut into rounds or oblongs, place a spoonful of whipped cream over the top and place a steamed fig on each. Serve with a lemon sauce.

Fish Must Have Oxygen

Deep-sea fish are so constructed that they can live on the meager quantities of free oxygen found at great depths. There are some places in the ocean where there is practically no free oxygen and in such places there are no fish. A fish placed in water devoid of free oxygen will suffocate precisely as an air-breathing animal will suffocate when deprived of air.

Gentlemen:

Word has just reached me from General Executive Offices that Ward Week was the most gratifying sale of its kind ever held.

This sale, the greatest event of the year in the Ward organization, was held in 500 Ward stores reaching from coast to coast. This event is generally conceded to be the greatest sale of its kind and scope in America.

You will be interested in the success of the sale because of the fact that approximately 90% of the advertising appropriation for Ward Week was spent in local newspapers.

The amazing total of almost 9,000,000 lines of space in about 800 newspaper carried the Ward Week message to 50,000,000 people. We feel we owe you a word of appreciation for the splendid manner in which The Freeman co-operated in making Ward Week a success. Your publication has again proven its value as an outstanding advertising medium.

Best wishes for continued success.

Schoonmaker Is Scout Enthusiast

Kingston, N. Y., October 12, 1932.
Mr. Jay Everett,
[illegible] Pine Street,
Kingston, New York.
Dear Mr. Everett:

No one at all familiar with young people can question the need for direction and guidance, especially during the present trying times through which we are passing. Many young people are going to homes filled with worry, many are seeing parents idle although willing to work, many are actually in need of physical sustenance for the first time, and practically all of them are feeling the effect of the general depressed atmosphere with which they are faced wherever they go.

We must not forget that in just a few short years these boys and girls will be the forces which will be guiding the affairs of the world. What the effect of these times will have upon the minds of the younger people no one knows. We do know, however, that their minds are at a most impressionable age. We know that principles instilled in these minds now are likely to be the dominating principles throughout their lives.

We know too, that these times create fertile fields for the many groups which are organized for the purpose of destroying the ideals upon which this nation is founded. Religious ideals are the center of attack of many of these groups. Government structure, school systems, homes, and welfare agencies; in fact most anything which we have believed conducive to good citizenship is a point of attack. These attacks are not new but because of the present unrest they are apt to find more receptive minds to which to make their appeal.

There are a number of organizations which are attempting to counteract these influences by preaching and teaching the principles of good citizenship to the young. The leaders of our nation are appealing to the citizens to not only continue this work but to strengthen and enlarge it because the need is greater than ever before. I know you are conscious of this need because of the time and energy you are spending in organizing the Boy Scout Campaign. With its wide range of interests, its emphasis of helpfulness, its special appeal for outdoor activities the Boy Scout movement is unquestionably a real influence for good and I wish you much success in your effort.

With sincere prayers and best wishes for a successful effort, I am,

Cordially yours,
(Signed)

THROUGH a WOMAN'S EYES • By JEAN NEWTON

A LIFE "FULL OF EXCITEMENT"

"I ENVY you for the wonderful life you lead—so full of excitement," said a leisured woman to another so busy that it was said there wasn't an hour in the day that she could call her own.

And how the other woman would have valued her leisure.

For the woman whose life was so "full of excitement," who was in a constant whirl of engagements, duties, demands made upon her, while she was interested in what she was doing, was rarely able to choose what she wanted to do. Her life was too "full of excitement!"

She was like many successful men who nominally own their business, while in fact their businesses own them. This woman would have liked to be mistress of her own life, whereas her life, so exceptionally "full" that other women envied her, mastered her.

This woman realized that it is not "excitement" and constantly having provided for us "something to do" that makes life "full," but rather the quiet and peace and freedom to contemplate the vast panorama, to reflect upon what it is that we really want to do, and then to follow that inclination. That is a life to be envied by any of us. Therein lies graceful living—the real enjoyment of life.

EACH HAS HIS PLACE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE sun looks up to the hills,
  The hills look down to the sea,
Each looks upon the place it fills
  And thinks the other free.
The waters ebb and flow,
  The slaves of wind and tide;
The mountains may not move, and so
  They are dissatisfied.

The ocean longs to rest,
  The hills to wander far,
Though each is serving God its best,
  As men and all things are.
Yet men grow discontent,
  And envious, and sad;
So many a weary hour is spent,
  An hour that might be glad.

I know not what the case,
  Your duty sea or hill,
But this I know: It is a place
  That no one else can fill.
Each has some task to do,
  Each has some thing to be—
You look at me—I look at you,
  And think the other free.

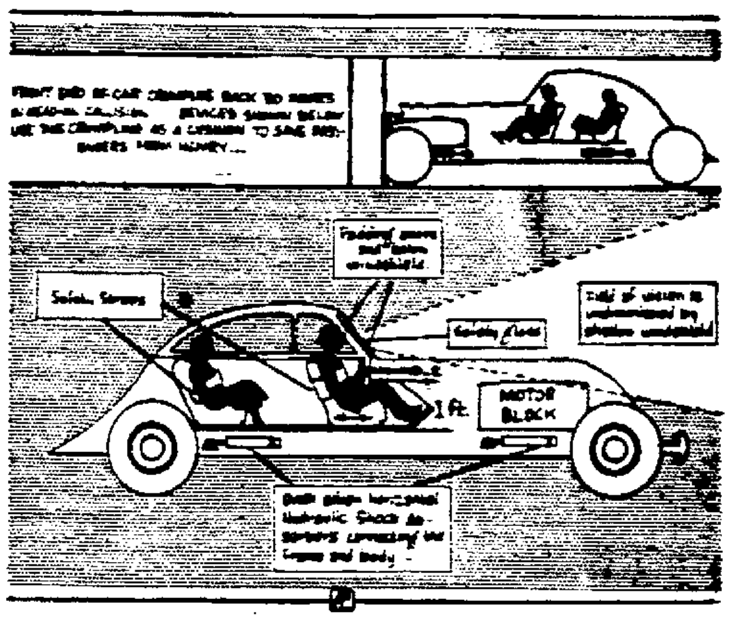
Early Fall Hikers

There's nothing like an early autumn day for a brisk hike, if you make it in Girl Scout style and bring the larder along. These girls have bought fresh milk from a convenient farm house, and their uncooked food is in the pack on one girl's back. Soon it will be sizzling over a wood fire with the whole troop sitting about, mouths watering.



The sketch above shows how H. L. Yeagley, physicist at Pennsylvania State college, would design automobiles to prevent injury to driver and passengers in accidents. The passengers might escape unhurt even if the car crashed at 115 miles an hour, Yeagley says.

Today

Kingston: "Tiger Shark". When Edward G. Robinson appears in a picture, past performances prove that the picture will have an abundance of excitement plus some superb acting. This talkie is no exception for it lives up to the Robinson standard in every way. In the role of the bragging, colorful Portuguese Mike, Mr. Robinson is given full opportunity of proving his versatility. It's a story of the sea, with some of the finest fishing scenes ever filmed. The play hasn't a dull moment, and Richard Arlen and Zita Johann are splendid in supporting roles.

Orpheum: "Reserved For Ladies" and "Hell Bound." The first feature is a gay, optimistic little comedy. Leslie Howard is the principal player in the cast. "Hell Bound" offers Leo Carillo, Lola Lane, and Lloyd Hughes in an old thriller.

Broadway: "My Pal the King". One of those mythical kingdom things, with a touch of reality, for this mythical kingdom is on the down grade when the story opens. Tom Mix, hero of a million boys and girls, steps out of the west into this mythical kingdom and with the help of his good horse Tony, sets things aright. There are some bright moments in this latest Tom Mixer and it should prove enjoyable to the older folks as well as the children.

Tomorrow.

Orpheum: Same.
Kingston: Same.

Broadway: "Love Bound" and "Probation." A double feature billing. The first talkie features Jack Mulhall and Natalie Moorehead. The second play offers Sally Blane and John Darrow.

Kingston Loses To Albany Academy, 13-7

After scoring seven points in the third quarter to overlap the touchdown made by Albany Academy in the first, Kingston lost when the Cadets pushed over another tally in the third to win, 13-7 on the Academy Field Saturday afternoon. This is the first time in three yars that the Academy has beaten Kingston High.

In the first quarter the Academy eleven began to click and the Maroon however gallantly it fought, was pushed aside by good interference for the tall fast fullback, Bill Cornell. He carried the ball most of the distance to the goal and Clinton took it over. It all happened rather quickly but Kingston was not set back by the score. Instead it fought the harder.

The Maroon went to work in the third stanza like its opponents did in the first. Burgevin and Cullum did the outstanding work, and Burgevin ended up by carrying the oval over on a brilliant run around the end. Cullum plunged for the extra point and was successful. At this stage Kingston had retruned to win and all Albany's work in the first quarter went for naught.

It was all Cornell. Whatever long runs were made it was he. In a 79 yard drive that ended up in the score that beat Kingston, Bill Cornell was the big shot if there ever was one. He scored the touchdown and Clinton, who made the first six points, hit the tackle for the extra point, which made the score, Albany Academy, 13; Kingston, 7.

In between these scores there was some good football. More sensational runs were made and Kingston had a better passing attack than it has known in years. The game was spectacular from beginning to end and was marked with a question mark just as long, for either team was capable of doing dangerous things at any time from any position on the field.

Both squads had their big moments, with the Cadets having one more than Kingston. Yet both lines and backs were evenly matched, but it appeared as though Kingston had a little more wealth of material in the backfield than its opponents.

Burgevin Great Back.

Kingston has seen great backs perform under its colors, and this season it has a fullback as clever as the cleverest, whose name will live long in the history of local football. This boy is Ed. Burgevin. He has been going great guns for the past two years.

His work Saturday was an exhibition that would rival any college star. His ability to run through a stream of tacklers is unusual and the way he did it against Albany, wouldn't make one cheer but rather sit quiet and wonder at his uncanniness.

In the first quarter he got loose on a 32 yard run around the end. His interference was exhausted quickly, but on he ran with footwork that is almost indescribable. On this occasion there was only one man left between him and the goal line and that man got him.

Kingston Scores.

Albany kicked off to Kingston in the second half, and the ball was taken by Cullum on the 15 yard line and returned to the 36. Burgevin swept an end for 11 yards to the 47 yard strip. A penalty for 15 yards against Albany brought the ball to the Cadet's 36 yard line and from here Kingston got under way once more.

Kelder slashed a tackle for five yards, Burgevin went for four more and Cullum hit the center of the line on that play that's all his, and got away for 14 yards, being tossed on the 13 yard line. Then Kelder went up to the six and on the next play a yard was lost. Here a penalty was inflicted on Kingston of 15 yards because of illegal use of hands on offense. The ball now rested on the 22 yard line and the chances for scoring looked slim.

However, Cullum called for a pass and Kelder dropped back to toss it. The throw was accurate and was taken by Burgevin who was immediately downed on the six yard line. Kingston had a chance to score once more. The ball was about equal distance from the sidelines and it was centered to Burgevin. He tore around Albany's left end, shedding several tackles, and crossed into the end zone before being forced out of bounds.

A few minutes later Cullum crashed his way over for the extra score to put the Maroon in front, 7-6. This was in the third quarter and the period was half over. Kingston kicked off to Albany and the Cadets took the rest of the time making their score.

Cornell Goes Over.

The kickoff was taken on the 21 yard line and returned to the 31. From here Cornell started functioning and Albany was on its journey for 79 yards.

There weren't any big runs like the Kingston backs make in all their drives, they were short jabs at the line. Mostly the tackles hit from a wing back formation. The one play was used time and time again. First the right side of the line and then the left. Gains were made, three, five, seven, eight yards at a time. In the midst of it all a 15 yard penalty was called against Kingston.

This aided, giving the Cadets one of their seven first downs, and put the ball on the 25 yard line. Of course, in their march, they were held now and then from gaining. Jack Zacchio and Charlie Raibie, Kingston's left guard and center, figured in the Maroon defense. Their work was more than outstanding.

Cornell went on gaining, behind his heavy interference and it all came to an end when he went over from the foot line. Clinton followed with a plunge for the extra point.

In the last quarter Cornell intercepted a Kingston pass on Kingston's 40 yard line and the Cadets had advanced with the ball to the Maroon 14 yard line when the game ended. It might have ended in another score had the time lasted out for Albany was still going strong.

The score:

Takes Kickoff Back 107 Yards For Touchdown

Although his team was beaten, Captain Bob Gibb of Nebraska Wesleyan made football history by running a kick-off back 107 yards through the Oklahoma City University eleven. There have been only two longer runs in the last 11 years.

Newburgh Bowlers Defeat Kingston

In two special bowling matches at Colonial Alleys, North Front street, Sunday, a five-man team and a two-man team from Newburgh defeated Kingston combinations by the margin of two games out of three as indicated by scores as follows:

Gil Sampson did the best bowling of the matches by turning in the high single of 248 in the third game of the struggle between the quintets. His rolling was a big asset to Kingston.

Outlook On Football Schedule For The Week

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Here's how the struggles for sectional football championships shape up now as the nation's leading elevens approach the halfway point of the 1932 season:

East—Pittsburgh, Colgate, Columbia, Holy Cross, Harvard, Fordham, Penn, New York University, Temple, Brown and Boston College, among major schools, all unbeaten and untied but Pitt, Colgate and Fordham look most powerful right now. Pitt, which upset Army, 18-13 Saturday, meets Ohio State of Big Ten this week, while Colgate and N. Y. U. meet in a test of undefeated machines. Fordham plays Michigan State and Harvard battles Dartmouth in other big-time games while Penn, Columbia, Holy Cross and Brown face lesser opposition. Yale looks like a certain loser against Army and Princeton may chalk up its first major victory since 1928 against Navy which already has been twice beaten.

Michigan Should Win

Midwest—Michigan and Purdue, the outstanding contenders for Big Ten honors, both continue conference competition. Michigan should overcome Illinois without trouble but Purdue may be in for a warm afternoon against Northwestern's aroused Wildcats. Iowa and Minnesota, Chicago and Indiana are paired off in other conference games. Notre Dame, which has rolled up 135 points in two games, will be strongly favored over a below-par Carnegie Tech outfit.

Big Six: Only four conference games have been played so far with Kansas State, Nebraska and Oklahoma now tied for the lead with one victory apiece. Kansas State and Oklahoma clash this week in a game crucial for one and perhaps for both. Nebraska may find rejuvenated Kansas a tough customer. Iowa State meets Missouri in the third conference battle.

The Headline Attraction

Pacific Coast: Southern California and Stanford are matched in the week's headliner at Palo Alto and the result probably will determine which shall rule the coast conference this year. Stanford has the more impressive early-season record for Southern California was disappointing against both Oregon State and Loyola of Los Angeles. Washington State and Oregon State, Washington and California, and Idaho and Oregon complete the conference schedule. U. C. L. A., nominal co-leader with Southern California with two victories and no defeats, deploys against non-conference opposition in California Tech.

South: A much less interesting schedule this week than last with the battle of two undefeated leaders, Kentucky and Virginia Poly, the feature. Auburn, another of the unbeaten pace-setters, meets a stern test in Tulane which was tied by Vanderbilt last week. Tennessee, conqueror of Alabama and generally regarded as the most serious threat for the Southern conference crown, eases up in a game with Maryville. Georgia and Vanderbilt, North Carolina and Georgia Tech, Virginia Military and Virginia, Florida and North Carolina State and Alabama and Mississippi clash in other conference games.

Test For Texas.

Southwest: Texas, impressive against Missouri and Oklahoma in intersectional games, gets its first Southwest Conference test against undefeated Rice. Baylor and Texas A. and M., are matched in the only other conference game, as Texas Christian, with two conference victories, has a "breather" against Austin. Arkansas plays Louisiana State of the Southern Conference, and Southern Methodist tackles Centenary of the Southern Intercollegiate A. A.

Rocky Mountain: Utah and Colorado University are the leaders with Wyoming, Denver and the Colorado Aggies a step behind. Utah is idle this week but Colorado University plays Colorado Aggies and Wyoming meets Colorado College. Denver travels east to play Temple at Philadelphia Friday night.

Boxing Bouts Slated This Week

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Opening a dull week among the nation's cauliflowers, Tommy Loughran and Stanley Poreda, representing the extremes of age and fighting style among the heavyweights, clash in a ten round bout in Philadelphia tonight.

In Los Angeles tomorrow night, Baby Arizmendi of Mexico, recognized as featherweight champion by the California Boxing Association, defends his claim to that title against the veteran Newsboy Brown of Los Angeles.

Bat Battalino of Hartford, Conn., former featherweight champion now campaigning among the lightweights, faces Barney Ross of Chicago in the ten round headliner of the Chicago Stadium show Friday night.

Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight contender, meets the New England sensation, Unknown Winstor, in a 12 rounder at the Boston Arena tomorrow night. Winston, a Hartford negro, has piled up a long string of victories among lesser known heavies.

Sing Sing Team Defeats Patrolmen

The football team of Sing Sing prison got revenge on the Port Jervis policemen, who defeated them last year, by scoring over the coppers Sunday, 7-0. Captain Hayes of the "home team" scored by dashing 41 yards for a touchdown a few minutes after the first kickoff. Alabama Pitts kicked the goal while 2,000 inmates in the prison rooting section cheered wildly.

Next Sunday the Sing Sing gridders of Johnny Law, former Notre Dame star, and now coach of the eleven, will tackle the Kingston Yellow Jackets who have won three straight games this fall.

Nation's Football Scoring Leaders

(By The Associated Press)

Ralph Graham, Kansas State's galloping fullback, has taken the lead in the race for national football individual scoring honors.

The Big Six conference star has scored 72 points in four games to lead Louis Bush of Massachusetts State, the east's leader, by six points. Casey Kimbrell of Auburn, who did not get into the game with Georgia Tech last week, dropped from the first to third place with 58 points.

The leader in each of the nation's nine major groups or conferences follows:

Player and College	POS	G	TD	PAT	FLD	Total
Big Six—Graham, Kansas State	FB	4	11	6	0	72
East—Bush, Mass. State	HB	4	11	0	0	66

PUNTS and PASSES

By The Associated Press

West Point, N. Y.—Army not only lost a football game to Pitt last Saturday but it looks now as if they had lost a couple of tackles for the Yale game as well. Both Jack Armstrong and "Abe" Lincoln were badly bruised in their encounter with the Golden Panthers and may be replaced by Smolier and Hutchinson next Saturday.

Cambridge, Mass.—It was more than 20 years from the first Harvard-Dartmouth encounter in 1892 to the first victory for the Green but their present status is something entirely different. Coming up to next Saturday's game, the Green has a 6-4 edge in their encounters since they resumed relations after a ten year break in 1922.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Syracuse has two eastern intercollegiate boxing champions on its football squad. Joe Moran, star halfback, holds the 160 pound title and Al Gutzman the 175 pound crown.

New Haven—No matter how they look at it, Army hasn't been able to get the better of Yale over any long stretch although the Cadets made the record score of the series, 33-0 in 1926. Between 1893 and 1912, Yale won 13 games, Army three and four were tied. In the renewed series since 1921 there have been five Yale triumphs, two for Army and four more draws.

Princeton, N. J.—The Cornell game last Saturday cost Princeton the services of one of its best backs, Mil Draudt, for next Saturday's clash with Navy. He suffered a contusion of the neck in the last quarter and will not be available for at least ten days.

Philadelphia — With one more game to go before the start of the last half of the schedule, Pennsylvania's squad appears to be ready for its battles with Navy, Pitt, Ohio State and Cornell. The Quakers lacked reserve power when the season started but such players as Lima, Cresci, Kline, Eustis and Dougherty, who were rated as junior varsity material have developed into first class reserves.

Ulster County Gun Club Scores

There were three perfect 25's scored at the weekly shoot of the Ulster County Gun Club Saturday. It was a perfect day for shooting and brought ten shooters to the traps. The attendance is increasing each week. The club recently purchased 10,000 shells at an exceptionally good price and in consequence the fee for shooting has been reduced. This will undoubtedly cause an increase in attendance at the weekly shoots. The big county championship will be held at the club grounds October 23.

Saturday's scores:

Finch	25+23=48
Caunitz	23+25=48
Wheeler	25+23=48
Longendyke	24+22=46
Coles	23+22=45
Van Gonsic	22+22=44

Yellow Jackets Win From Woodlawn, 6-0

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

When a ball club disposes of a batting powerhouse like Aloysius Harry Simmons, it is somewhat strange to find the experts concluding that it was all for the best, apart even from the cash profit involved, understood, incidentally, to be nearer $100,000 than $150,000.

It seems Connie Mack made up his mind some time ago to part with Simmons, whose big punch played so important a role in the three championship runs of the A's.

Al, according to the stories circulated in Philadelphia, did not take a brotherly interest in the rise of Jimmie Foxx as the club's new hitting power.

The big Polish outfielder never gained much popularity with the fans at Shibe Park. Moreover, the Shibes and Macks shed no tears over parting with the Simmons contract, calling for $100,000 over a three-year period having one more year to run.

Mack has two unusually promising young outfielders already in his field, in Roger Cramer and Ed Coleman, besides another up-and-coming young man from Portland named Finney. There is also the old reliable, Bing Miller, but Cramer is the only player in this collection with the stamp of greatness so far. Until an accident forced him out of the game, Cramer was playing sensational ball. He is fast, a natural hitter and has a fine arm.

Fears Foxx

Lefty Gomez, the slim Yankee southpaw who beat the A's seven times during the season, has a healthy respect for Jimmie Foxx.

"I never saw Ruth in his prime but in my brief experience up here Foxx has hit them as high and far as anything I have seen the Babe belt. Boy, that fellow takes a cut! He hit two homers off me this year that looked as though they never would come down. One was in the opening game, a wallop that cleared the centerfield fence at Shibe Park near the flagpole, and the other was in the last week of the season, with the bases full."

World's Series Backs

The Yankee southpaw experienced the most nervous moments of his career before and during the early stages of his first world's series game against the Cubs.

"I kept thinking about what everybody was expecting, that all my friends were either looking on or listening over the radio, and then began wondering whether I could even get the ball over the plate," said Gomez.

"I didn't have the slightest sign of control when I started warming up but it came back to me soon after the game started. I didn't get over feeling nervous until after the third inning."

Saturday's Stars Last Saturday

(By The Associated Press.)

Warren Heller, Pitt—Ran 54 yards for first touchdown against Army and made 50 yard passes to Joe Skladany that resulted in two more scored.

Beattie Feathers, Tennessee—Scored only touchdown in 7-3 victory over Alabama after his great punting had made opening for tally.

Ollie Arbelbide, Washington State—Ran back California punt 45 yards for touchdown that brought 7-2 victory.

Harry Newman, Michigan—made two fine passes for touchdowns in 14-0 victory over Ohio State.

Bert Baxter, Southern Methodist—Led Mustangs to 16-6 victory over Syracuse, making runs of 24 and 42 yards that led to touchdowns and kicking field goal.

Don Zimmerman, Tulane—Ran back punt 55 yards for Tulane's score in 6-6 tie with Vanderbilt.

Bohn. Hilliard, Texas—Scored two touchdowns, one on 95 yard run, in 17-10 victory over Oklahoma.

Rosendale Team Will Practice Tuesday

The Rosendale basketball team will start practice for the coming season Tuesday evening at 7:30. All basketball players in this vicinity are eligible to try for a berth with the Firemen, and will be welcome at the practice session Tuesday.

La Barba Wins

Saturday at Honolulu Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles, former flyweight champion, now fighting in the featherweight division, took a 10-round decision from Little Dempsey of Manila in a fast bout. LaBarba outclassed the Filipino taking seven rounds, but was forced to give his best throughout. The fight was put on in the rain and Dempsey fought barefooted from the third round.

Ryan To Join Brooklyn

Rosy Ryan, whose pitching helped the Minneapolis club win the American Association title this year, will join Brooklyn next spring. Ryan this year won 22 and lost 13 games. He formerly played with the New York Giants.

Cards Defeat Braves

The Chicago Cardinals gained their first National Professional Football League victory Sunday by defeating the Boston Braves 9-0 at at Boston.

The Kingston Yellow Jack hung up their third straight victor of the season Sunday afternoon b defeating Woodlawn of Yonkers 6- at the Fair Grounds before some fo fans who enjoyed the contest despi the damp, wet afternoon that w no drawback for the gridders o Manager Lou Kantrowitz.

Kingston scored in the first qua ter on an 11 yard pass from Be Benny to Clarence Hupfer, wh caught the oval just before he ste ped into the end zone. The extr point failed on an attempted pas

How the "Bees" Scored.

Woodlawn kicked off to Kingsto Stanley Colvin taking the ball o the 10 yard line. He returned it t the 40 under brilliant defense. O the first play called by Ed Minasia quarterback, Alabama Christma halfback, skirted an end for 3 yards, planting the ball on Woodlawn's 21 yard line. Two li bucks followed, the second by Mina ian for 11 yards. Several mo plunges were tried and on the la down Kingston was thrown for a 1 yard loss. Woodlawn took posse sion of the ball on its own 12 yar line. After hitting the Yellow Jacke forward wall unsuccessfully it punted to its own 46 yard line fro where Kingston began its march t victory.

Minasian returned the punt to th 42 yard line and Benny crashed tackle, making the 33 yard line. loss followed when Woodlawn's lef side of the line broke through t down a Yellow Jacket ball beare eight yards behind the line of scrimmage. A few moments later, however, Benny and Hupfer, crack pas ing combination of the Kantrowit team, completed a heave to the 2 yard line. From here the road fo lowed rather smoothly. Minasia hit the center of the line for 1 yards, placing the ball 11 yards fro the goal. From this position Benn tossed the pass to Hupfer which resulted in Kingston's touchdown a the lone score of the game.

Hard Playing.

Animosity hit a high pitch in th first quarter and waxed stronger a the game progressed, several slug fests between the players being na rowly avoided. Many penalties we inflicted on both sides by Refer Irwin "Dutch" Craw, who had hi hands full all the time. There w more spirit and enthusiasm show during this battle than in the pr vious contests won by the Yello Jackets, both on the part of player and spectators.

The fans were brought to the feet numerous times during th battle by the hard playing that resulted from the spirit of the gridde Woodlawn defeated the Yello Jackets last season and fought ha to hold intact its reputation. Th home team, eager to even the sco with the Yonkers boys, was in th fight every minute and accomplish its aim.

Sing Sing Next.

The victory made Kingston's thir in a row, one over the West Poi Artillery, 13-0, and the other ov the Albany Luck Strikes, 18-0.

Kingston's next game is aw from home. Sunday the Yello Jackets will travel to Sing Sing t play the eleven of Warden Lewis E Lawes, which has won three gam to date and is rated as a match fo any semi-pro eleven on the road t day. Johnny Law, former Notr Dame star, is coach of the priso team.

Grand Old Man Still Vibrant Figure At 70

By JOHN W. STAHR.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago (AP)—A man beyond his biblical allotment of three score and ten years doing the thinking, planning and demonstrating for some 40 young men in their teens and early 20's in one of sport's most rugged body-contact games—

That's the spectacle that Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of the midway, presents in this, the last season of his amazing 40-year tenure as head football coach at the University of Chicago.

Each afternoon a select group of a dozen or so old grads, many of them well into middle-age themselves, strings along the practice field beside the huge new stone field house to absorb, indirectly, some of the enthusiasm and verve with which "the Old Man" had imbued them during their playing days.

Daily they marvel at the spectacle of this patriarch teaching boys who could have been his grandsons, old—and new—gridiron tricks.

Still Shows Them How.

True, in the last few seasons the "Old Man" has eschewed actual physical contact with his pupils—there is a limit beyond which even the most amazingly well-preserved bone and sinew cannot go—but he's out there in his working clothes at every practice demonstrating spinners and other bits of technique.

In the last few seasons he has come to depend to a considerable degree upon assistant coaches—of which, during most of his regime, there had been a paucity on the midway—and Pat Page, in the last two seasons, was a first-mate to whom Skipper Stagg left much of the practice-field administration.

Page, an all-around Chicago star in the first decade of this century, who returned to his alma mater after serving as head coach at Butler and Indiana universities, has devoted most of his time to the linemen while "A. A." has worked principally with the backs.

One Of The Boys.

Stagg carries a spirit of friendliness, helpfulness and humility into these practice-field contacts. There is little suggestion in his coaching methods that the game of football is a life and death matter. He encourages a bit of kidding.

"Football should be fun," he believes, and he tries to make it fun throughout the week, not just on Saturday afternoons.

Working out a new quirk to his 1932 model "whirlwind shift," he is prone to admit, as man to man, to his young charges that "I'm not sure just yet whether we'd better have this back fake here, or go there," or words to that effect. Nothing of the martinet or the infallible Napoleon in his attitude.

Typical of his gentleness is his dismissal of the freshman, ordinarily recipients of nothing but harsh words. When the varsity has finished scrimmaging against the frosh, Stagg gives them a "that'll be all, freshmen—thank you!"

Beer in History

The scanty records of ancient Babylon, going back to 5000-6000 B. C., show that beer made from barley, and from barley and spelt, was extensively drunk there, even by laborers and by women in the harem. It was used in medicine in Babylon and Egypt, and had spices and bittering substances added to it. In Abyssinia and Nubia, Herodotus and Strabo both wrote that the people lived on millet and barley, "whereof they also made a beverage." Tacitus said that beer was the usual drink of the Germans and Pliny mentions the use of it in Gaul and Spain. He also writes, "They employ the foam which thickens upon the surface as a leaven"—probably the first reference to beer yeast for baking purposes.

Juvenile Etiquette

Bill, age eight, and his sister, Elizabeth, age five, had gone up to bed after bidding mother's guests "good night." Almost immediately sounds of dissension penetrated to the room below and mother sallied forth to calm the storm and learn its cause. "Well, Bill called me a 'greenie' for kissing Miss Barnes good night," the small sister explained excitedly, "and he said girls never kissed girls, they just kissed boys. And I said 'Greenie yourself, Bill,' she ended triumphantly, 'girls don't kiss boys—they just let the boys kiss them.'"

"Book for Lies" for Widow

In the will of a man who died recently in Sydney, New South Wales, he left his widow "5 shillings to buy a book in which to write down all the lies she has told me." The will has been broken by the executors, who found the allegations false. The man left his estate to three of his four children, but the executors have provided, subject to the approval of the court, that the widow will receive one-third and each child an equal share of the remainder.

Golden Age of Furniture

The first golden age of furniture is said to be that during which Rameses II, powerful Egyptian ruler, reigned. This pharaoh, too, has been pointed out as the same one who held the throne in the days of Israelite oppression. Way back in 2000 B. C. furniture included a folding stool, some chairs, couches and tables and other miscellaneous pieces.

Realization

"Shall we ever achieve the Utopias of which we dream?" is often asked. It is well to have faith that we shall, as a spur to endeavor. As Browning wrote: "All that we have willed or hoped or dreamed of good shall exist . . . when eternity confirms the conception of an hour."

Wolffish From Maine

After many attempts the Shedd aquarium of Chicago succeeded in obtaining two good specimens of the Maine coast wolffish, which were transported successfully in a special tank car. The wolffish has formidable rows of teeth with a destructive ability equaled by no other Maine fish except a few species of sharks. The fishermen know the fish as "catfish," but hotels serve it as "ocean whitefish."

150 Islands in Chain

The Aleutian islands, which are likely to figure in the establishment of any air routes between the United States and the countries of Asia, number altogether about 15 small islands, mostly of volcanic origin, although some are rocks in nature. The inhabitants of the islands are largely Eskimos, who live on fish and seal. The soil is so thin that the opportunities for agriculture are slim.

Pompeiian Tragedy

A tragedy of 1900 years ago has been revealed by excavation of the house of Menander in the ruins of the ancient city of Pompeii. In a bedroom lay two skeletons. Beside one was a leather purse containing a hundred pieces of money. Evidently the master of the house, seeing impending destruction by the tide of lava, leaped from his bed, called to his wife to follow and snatched his purse. But both were overwhelmed.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—The stock market was a lifeless affair today, with prices inclined to some heaviness, but trading slow and largely professional.

The list eased off 1 to 2 points during the first hour, recovered most of its loss in the second hour, but again drifted lower in the third. A somewhat steadier tone developed in wheat, which may have tended to bolster stocks a little.

Net losses of a point or so were numerous during the early decline, with a few issues down 2 or more, including American Telephone, North American, Corn Products, Case and Union Pacific. After recovering, the list again drifted off, but in the main held above the lows of the morning. By the fourth hour, issues off a point or so included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Union Pacific, Case, Westinghouse, Anaconda, Johns Manville, and others. Santa Fe was up a point for a time. Owens Bottle went up three points.

Cheap money remained one of the bullish talking points in Wall Street, with call loans again renewing at 1 per cent. When money was reduced to 1 per cent some months ago, substantial withdrawals resulted, but the current experiment with the low rate has not had that effect, so plentiful is the supply of short term funds. Bankers pointed out, however, that cheap money is likely to be effective in bolstering prices and stimulating business only when other conditions favor, and that its effects are likely to be gradual.

Offsetting the easy money factor, market analysts pointed out, was the expectation that industrial earnings reports for the third quarter, soon to appear in large numbers, would be disappointing in many instances. U. S. Steel's report, due a week from tomorrow, is receiving considerable discussion. Steel quarters pointed out that the low rate of operations clearly foreshadowed a large deficit. What Wall Street is chiefly interested in, is whether the directors will regard the recent improvement in general conditions as of sufficient proportions to justify payment of further preferred dividends from surplus.

"Vaccine's" Meaning

Inoculation is the communicating of a disease to a person in good health by injecting its virus into his blood with a view of inducing a mild form of the disease and then securing immunity from future attacks. Vaccination is a form of inoculation; that is, it is the inoculating of a well person with a vaccine, especially that of cowpox, to prevent or mitigate attacks of smallpox. Literally "vaccine" means pertaining to cows.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Although most fruit growers prefer to sell their apples destined for export trade outright and have the money in their pockets rather than to take a chance on receiving whatever English buyers will pay, several of the producers of fancy apples are consigning rather than accepting prices paid by exporters. Almost invariably they are growers who make a specialty of growing nothing but the best fruit, carefully spraying according to schedule and grading closely. Because they put up a better pack than some other growers they hesitate to sell at prevailing prices for export fruit, realizing the British buyers will pay the highest prices for the best fruit. They have made no mistake in pursuing this policy and their returns from across the water are better than sales on this side of the Atlantic would have realized.

Retain Savage Ways

The Iquitos, a tribe of South American Indians, divided into many branches, some on the River Tigre, others on the Nanay. Missionary efforts have failed and they remain savages, worshiping figures carved in the shape of birds and beasts. They brew the Indian fermented liquor chicha better than any of the neighboring tribes, flavoring it with the shoots of some plant which has the effect of an opiate.

When Housewives Made Own Stocks of Candles

The candle molding process was invented by one Le Brege of Paris, and for it molds of tin and pewter were employed. There were molds running from singles to two dozen, the tin molds coming in one- two, four, six eight, twelve and twenty-four accommodations, with the four, sixes and twelves the most common.

It is quite likely that when the housemistress of Colonial days had decided on her candle-making day she collected the molds of her neighbors along with her own to assure turning out a batch that would last her some length of time. At first she did all her own work, taking care to keep the candle wicking straight and tight as it hung in the mold.

Later, perhaps because other tasks took her time or because Mrs. Goodnight Thomas across the way had her candles made by an itinerant candle maker, and because, too, she was hungry for the bits of gossip and news the itinerants carried as part of their stock in trade with their candle molds, she hired the interesting Button Liveright from Boston when he came around in the fall to make her winter supply of candles.
